Battle Shaping Up In Korea

North Korean Force Spotted Moving South

Big Column Streams Toward ROK Troops

SEOUL, Wednesday, Oct. 25 (AP) — Jet and propeller-driven fighter planes destroyed 55 North Korean vehicles and damaged 40 others ahead of South Korean troops advancing toward the Manchurian border, the Air Force reported today. The concentration was discovered at Mupyong, 20 miles southwest of Kanggye.

SEOUL, Wednesday, Oct. 25 (AP) — Field reports said a big North Korean motorized column streamed southward Tuesday toward onrushing South Korean troops now only 20 miles from the new Communist refugee capital of Kanggye near the Manchurian border.

For the first time in two days the Reds appeared to be mustering their remaining strength for an organized stand. A night-flying pilot reported "many, many" enemy vehicles on the move south. He said that "it looks like traffic at Pasadena on Rose Bowl day."

(In San Francisco, the Navy released a dispatch received from an aircraft carrier off Northeast Korea also reporting a long Red highway column — but in a sector far to the east of Kanggye.

(Two Navy fliers reported spotting and attacking a 30-mile long column Tuesday night, Korean time, while flying over the coastal highway north of Songjin.

Exhausted Ammo, Bombs

("The two night fighter pilots pulled up to clear a snow-covered mountain approximately five miles northwest of Chong," the dispatch said, "and came face to face with a stretch of road approximately 30 miles in length 'strung with vehicles moving south.'"

(The town specified in the dispatch does not show on available war maps. The dispatch said the two fliers, Lt. Glendon Goodwin, Palo Alto, Calif., and Lt. (jg) Martin Manger, Elberon, N. J., "selected the most concentrated portion of the convoy and dropped their remaining bombs." They also exhausted their ammunition in strafing runs.

(It could not be determined immediately if this was another column or if there had been a discrepancy in locating the column reported south of Kanggye).

Intelligence officers at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo estimated the North Koreans had divisional control over 25,000 troops as they backed deep into the mountainous hinterland near the Yalu river in the northwest. The Yalu divides Korea on its east bank from Manchuria on the west.

Chinese Reds Fire On Planes

Allied planes, supporting the drive of five South Korean divisions of fully 50,000 men toward the Manchurian border, reported for the first time they had drawn Chinese Communist antiaircraft fire from across the Yalu.

The incident occurred Monday near the east-bank Yalu river town of Manpojin, 20 miles northwest of Kanggye.

Two U. S. Marine pilots reported they were the targets for at least 40 bursts of ack-ack fire from Chinese Red guns as they flew five miles inside Korea in the vicinity of Kanggye. Neither plane was damaged.

19 On Casualty List

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Defense Department today reported 19 casualties in the Korean area — the smallest list made public since the early days of the conflict.

LIKELY CHOICE—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther (above) is expected to be named chief of the anti-Communist Army of Free Europe at the current meeting of Atlantic pact nations in Washington. Gen. Gruenther was chief of staff for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in World War II.

Probe Of Senate Contests In Four States Ordered

N. Y. Lehman-Hanley Race Is Involved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Sweeping investigations of the current Senate campaigns in New York, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Kentucky were ordered today.

They follow complaints from the American Labor Party in New York, Republicans in Iowa and Kentucky, and Democrats in Pennsylvania.

The inquiries were ordered by and will be conducted by an elections subcommittee of the Senate Rules committee. Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) heads the group. The other members are Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) and Schoeppel (R-Kas).

Lehman-Hanley Race Involved

Involved are the races of Democratic Sen. Herbert H. Lehman against Lt. Gov. Joseph R. Hanley, Republican, in New York; Sen. Francis J. Myers, Democrat, against Republican Gov. James Duff in Pennsylvania; Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Republican, against Democrat Albert Loveland In Iowa; and Gov. Earle Clements, Democrat, against Charles I. Dawson, Republican senatorial nominee, in Kentucky.

In announcing the decision to send investigators into the four states, Gillette told reporters that the New York complaint came from the American Labor Party and involved the Republican senatorial nomination and a series of complaints about various nominations and appointments on the Democratic side, not, however, including the nomination for senator.

Hanley Letter Enlivened Race

The embittered contest there was enlivened by publication of a letter from Hanley, who suddenly withdrew as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, accepted the Senate nomination, and left the way open for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to seek another term in the Albany statehouse.

The American Labor Party complaint said that Hanley had been assured that his debts would be repaid if he retired from the governorship race and took the Senate nomination.

The ALP insisted that both parties had engaged in "sordid deals," in New York and said that President Truman and Democratic Leader Ed Flynn were involved in one on the Democratic side.

Truman Shifts Disarmanent Policy Of U. S.

Urges U. N. Combine Atom, Arms Talks

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — In a sudden change of signals, President Truman today urged the United Nations to combine its talks about atomic control and conventional arms, in an effort to achieve "foolproof" and "genuine" disarmament. Until disarmament comes, the President said, the U. S. will build up its strength to help keep peace.

The Soviet Union for years has sought a combination of atomic and arms negotiations. The President was reported to have decided the time has come to see if the Soviet Union would make a sincere effort to work out a disarmament treaty.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky withheld comment. He merely referred reporters to his speech yesterday, when the Russian said Mr. Truman is using the old Hitler slogan of "guns instead of butter."

Speaks On U. N. Birthday

The President, speaking at a colorful, packed session of the General Assembly on the fifth birthday of the U. N., called for every effort at disarmament. He said the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission and the Commission for Conventional Armaments have done useful work but that he believes the work of these commissions can now be brought more closely together.

"One possibility to be considered is whether their work might be revitalized if carried forward in the future through a new and consolidated disarmament commission," the President said.

"But until an effective system of disarmament is established, let us be clear about the task ahead. The only course the peace-loving nations can take in the present situation is to create the armaments needed to make the world secure against aggression.

No Applause By Vishinsky

"That is the course to which the United States is now firmly committed. That is the course we will continue to follow as long as it is necessary. The United States has embarked upon the course of increasing its armed strength only for the purpose of helping to keep the peace. We pledge that strength to uphold the principles of the United Nations. We believe that the peace-loving members of the United Nations join us in that pledge."

Vishinsky did not applaud when the President concluded his 22-minute speech. The Russian stood up with the other delegates in the assembly hall when Mr. Truman finished, and stuffed a Russian text of Mr. Truman's speech in his pocket. Later the Russian greeted Mr. Truman cordially at a reception.

Faris El-Khoury, Syria, said he would put up a resolution tomorrow to combine the atomic and conventional arms talks.

Draftee Slain During Meade Escape Attempt

FORT MEADE, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—A 22-year-old draftee was shot and killed today as he attempted to escape from the prison stockade here, 2nd Army headquarters announced.

He was identified by an Army spokesman as Recruit Thomas J. Angelino, whose next of kin was listed as Anna Angelino, Wilmington, Del.

The 2nd Army said Angelino was awaiting court-martial on charges of failure to report for a formation, willful disrespect to an officer and willful disobedience of a direct order.

NPA To Go Ahead With Amusement Construction Ban

Shutdown Order Is Expected This Week

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The National Production Authority has decided to go ahead with its ban on the building of amusement places. The shutdown order will come out this week despite criticism from construction industry leaders, officials said today.

The order not only will bar private construction of such places as dance halls, horse and dog tracks and bowling alleys, they said, but also will prohibit the starting of new state, city and federal buildings for recreational purposes.

Schools Are Exempt

Exemptions will be allowed in the latter case, however, for facilities connected with schools and institutions.

Whether the order, designed to conserve materials for defense, will outlaw the building of new movie houses, theaters and night clubs was uncertain. Officials did not divulge their exact definition of "amusement facility."

As tentatively drafted, however, it reportedly will not hinder remodeling, alteration and repair of amusement spots, as long as no basic structural changes are made.

Oil Drum Priority

On another home front sector the NPA acted to break a threatened bottleneck in the shipment of oil, gasoline and food to the armed forces by allowing priority rating for the necessary oil drums, cans and containers.

The priority system does not cover food and petroleum, but firms holding military contracts for those products have notified the Defense Department that deliveries are jeopardized by a shortage of metal containers. NPA therefore authorized the department to grant them use of the priority rating.

Dean Says U. S. Ahead In Atom Weapon Field

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said today the United States is "much better off" in the field of atomic weapons than it was a year ago.

"You can be sure we are stronger than Russia," he said.

Dean gave no figures, however, and declined to speculate whether U. S. atomic strength has increased in proportion to Russia's.

He told a news conference that a site for attempting to manufacture the hydrogen bomb will be announced within a short time.

But he wouldn't say what progress is being made in h-bomb research.

Writing Sentence

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 24 (AP) — A balky motorist who refused to follow a policeman's instructions, today was sentenced by a police magistrate to write 500 copies of the following statement:

"I will always obey the order of a traffic policeman".

Trio Completes 26-Month Voyage Across Atlantic

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Three young British mariners were in New York today after completing a 26-month voyage across the Atlantic in a 40-foot cutter.

The amateur sailors tied up at the Coast Guard pier last night. They arrived with a total of $2.50 in their pockets, their dog and pictures and material for a series of articles on their trip.

The voyage began Aug. 28, 1948, from Falmouth, England. The little ship, the Content, visited Spain, Lisbon, Gibraltar, Tangier, Casablanca, Canary Islands, British Guiana and the British West Indies.

Kickback Charge Denied By Brehm

LANCASTER, O., Oct. 24 (AP)—A widow formerly employed in the office of Rep. Walter H. Brehm (R-Ohio) charged today that he took $7,340 of her salary over a three-year period. Brehm promptly branded the charge as "fantastic."

Mrs. Clara Soliday, 75, Logan, O., sued for recovery of the $7,340 plus an additional $10,000 as "punitvie damages."

The suit was filed in Fairfield County Common Pleas Court by Attorney Hubert D. Lappen, former prosecutor of Hocking county (Logan, Ohio).

Brehm, 58, has represented Ohio's 11th Congressional District for eight years. He is a candidate for re-election Nov. 7.

Reached at his Millersport home, Brehm branded the suit as "absurd and the most cockeyed thing I ever heard of."

"Why it's too fantastic to reply to," he told newsmen.

Brehm added:

"If I were guilty, why did she work for me for three years? Why didn't she leave me sooner? Why did she wait three years after leaving her job to file a damage suit?"

The congressman asserted Mrs. Soliday "has been put up to this thing in order to try to hurt me with my people in this district."

Ford Won't Up Price Of '51 Model Mercury

DETROIT, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. plans no increase in the price of its new 1951 model Mercury automobiles.

Announcing this today Henry Ford II, president, said the decision was taken despite mounting costs and because "we want to be sure we are doing our part in holding the line against inflation."

Ford made no reference to what price action may be taken on the forthcoming new Ford models. His statement intimated, however, that current prices will be retained if such action is at all possible.

Engineers Ask 20% Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers announced tonight it would serve notice Nov. 3 on the nation's railroads asking for a 20 per cent wage increase for engineers in road service.

Atlantic Treaty Nations Support Defense Speedup

Immediate Action Urged By Bradley

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — A speedup of North Atlantic defenses received unanimous support from military representatives of the Atlantic pact nations today, an American spokesman announced tonight.

Gen. Omar Bradley had warned the representatives they must unite in building a common defense now or risk having to use makeshifts "in the face of enemy attack."

On this note of urgency, Bradley opened a round of talks that may lead to creation of a powerful multination military machine designed to stem any march of Communist aggression across Europe.

Recess Until Saturday

At the end of the day's session, a spokesman told reporters that the North Atlantic Military Committee had recessed until 2:00 p. m. (EST) Thursday. He said the purpose of the recess was to allow some members to consult their governments about details raised today.

He said that one small country had proposed to contribute larger forces to the North Atlantic defense setup than the committee's planners had proposed. This offer, it was explained, was made to speedup realization of integrated defenses for the area.

The American spokesman said the small country's offer "spearheaded" the idea of increasing contributions beyond those proposed by committee planners. He said he received the impression that a number of small nations were inclined to take similar action.

Communique Issued

One of the questions on which the committee must act further before making definite recommendations to the North Atlantic defense ministers involves the powers to be given a supreme commander.

In a communique issued by the military committee at the end of its session today, the group said agreements were reached on several important matters to be submitted to the committee of defense ministers, which meets here Saturday.

Vishinsky Toasts Orchestra At Lie's Lunch For Truman

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (INS) — A three-piece orchestra drew a toast from Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky today when it played the marching song of the Russian cavalry at a lunch given by Trygve Lie in honor of President Truman.

The orchestra played the song — "Meadowland' — at Vishinskys request after it had played Edvard Grieg's "I Love You" for Mr. Truman and "The Sidewalks of New York" for U. N. Secretary-General Lie.

George Predicts Tax Hike Despite Victory In Korea

Sees Excess Profits Levy By Christmas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga), a top congressional manager of tax legislation, put the nation on notice to expect further multi-billion dollar increases in taxes, notwithstanding the victory in Korea.

He foresaw:

1. Enactment of a corporation excess profits tax by Christmas—or at least "very early in 1951" to be effective retroactively as of last July 1 or October 1. This bill will be confined strictly to a super tax on excess profits or "war profits."

General Tax Bill Possible

2. The possibility of another general tax bill next year. He did not elaborate on what this next bill would do.

"The successes in Korea," George told newsmen, "do not remove the necessity for additional taxes. We cannot afford not to go ahead with strengthening our defenses — and that costs money."

Some lawmakers feel there is not much likelihood of another general increase in normal individual taxes, unless the world situation worsens.

Congress will reconvene November 27, and the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee are under instruction to present an excess profits tax bill, ready for action at that time.

Record Tax Year Likely

This bill, along with the $4,700,000,000 increase voted just before Congress quit in September, is likely to boost federal tax collections to the highest level on record—even surpassing the top collection of any World War II year, which was $44,800,000,000 in 1945.

Meanwhile, the staffs of experts employed by Congress and the Treasury Department, are tearing their hair trying to find a sound and acceptable formula for an excess profits levy.

Red Plot Bared In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 24 (AP) — The National Defense Department today reported the discovery of a secret plan for recruiting and training a 116,000-man Communist-indoctrinated army to overthrow the Philippines government next year.

The document, attributed by army agents to Hukbalahap Supreme Commander Luis Taruc, was found in the possession of one of six alleged members of the Communist Party secretariat-general, arrested in a series of raids in Manila Oct. 18. The Huks are left-wing guerrillas.

National Defense Secretary Ramon Magsaysay, in a statement, indicated this was one of the documents which impelled the army to request suspension of the writ of habeas corpus.

Peiping Radio, News Agency Report Move

Indicate Invasion Already In Motion

BERLIN, Oct. 24 (AP) — Communist news agencies said tonight that the armies of Red China have been ordered to march on the "lost horizon" country of Tibet and indicated the invasion already was in motion.

ADN, Soviet-licensed news agency of East Germany, quoted the New China news agency, organ of the Chinese Communists as saying:

"Units of the Chinese peoples armies Tuesday received orders to March into Tibet to free the 3,000,000 inhabitants of this country from oppression.

(The Peiping radio made the same announcement.)

The invasion, if the ADN report is true, came just one day short of four months after the North Koreans began their ill-fated march across the 38th parallel on June 25.

Virtually Undefended

Along with Formosa, Indochina, Burma, Yugoslavia and Germany, Tibet has figured in world-wide speculation concerning a possible Kremlin timetable for Communist expansion.

Cloud-shrouded Tibet, one of the most primitive and isolated countries in the world, is virtually undefended except for its 24,000-foot-high mountain peaks.

Pictured as the site of the mythical Shangri-La in the novel, "Lost Horizon," Tibet is ruled by the 15-year-old Dalai Lama and a government of Tibetan Buddist priests.

Although conquered by the Chinese emporors in the 17th century, Chinese rule has not been effective for many years and the country's autonomy has been recognized by China since 1914.

For months, however, Chinese Communists have been threatening to "liberate" Tibet.

Several months ago a Tibetan delegation arrived in New Dedhi, India, to negotiate with Red China representatives. The Chinese Communists were reported to have agreed to the principles of regional autonomy for Tibet, but to have insisted that the negotiations be continued in Peiping, the capital of Red China.

May Already Be On March

New Delhi dispatches Tuesday said the Tibetan delegation was leaving for Peiping tomorrow to seek an accord.

ADN quoted the New China news agency of Red China as saying the Southwest Chinese military district and headquarters of the Second Chinese field army had exhorted troops to fulfill their "honorable duty" in "liberating" Tibet.

Phrasing of the dispatch by ADN, virtually the official voice of Soviet occupation forces in East Germany, indicated the troops already were on the march to Tibet.

"Officers and men and members of the Communist Party of the advancing army units are asked to fulfill their task and thereby demonstrate their deep sympathy for the revolution," ADN quoted the New China news agency.

(No official word of the reported invasion had been received at United Nations headquarters at Lake Success.)

More Alleged Red Leaders Arrested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Justice Department arrested more alleged Communist leaders today in a nationwide drive under the new anti-subversive law.

At the same time the department worked on plans for first steps to meet Communist defiance of the law, which requires registration by the Red party, its members and front groups. The deadline for that registration passed last night with not a name on the books. The party itself appeared the likely first target for action which might begin in a week or two — and probably will take years to get through the courts.

Freedom Bell Dedicated As Nations Split On East-West Lines Mark Birthday Of U. N.

[By The Associated Press]

Countries split on East-West lines of the cold war celebrated the fifth birthday of the United Nations yesterday, each according to its views.

Moscow newspapers told Russia's millions that the U. N. had the choice of going either down "the path of peace" pointed out by the Soviet Union or "the path of the aggressors," meaning the United States and other Western powers.

President Truman suggested in a speech to the U. N. General Assembly in New York that war fears could be dispelled if all nations agreed to a foolproof disarmament program. He proposed that the U.N. combine its talks about atomic control and conventional arms, a step that Russia has sought for four years. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not applaud during the speech and withheld comment later.

U. N. Day declarations from Berlin, the divided city behind the iron curtain in Soviet-occupied Germany, pointed sharply to the differences of opinion as to how final peace can be found.

The Freedom Bell, a 10-ton bronze symbol created for Communist-surrounded West Berlin by U. S. public subscription, was dedicated by Gen. Lucius D. Clay with the pledge "to resist aggression and tyranny wherever they appear on earth." A throng of almost 500,000 Germans applauded. Some wept.

Across the boundary line in Communist-ruled East Berlin, Communist speakers declared the bell was "a war bell, a hunger bell, a death bell" and its rope "will become a gallows rope for those who ring it."

The resonant tones of the Freedom Bell, sponsored by the "Crusade for Freedom" which Clay heads, were carried by radio around the world.

School and church bells were rung in various cities of the United States to celebrate U. N. Day. There were parades and speeches. Blue and white flags of the U. N., first carried into battle in Korea, were presented to various schools.

Stunned Entertainment World Mourns Death Of Al Jolson; Funeral Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24 (AP) — A stunned entertainment world today mourned the passing of Singer Al Jolson.

The immigrant boy whose voice thrilled America for a half century died here last night of a heart attack. He had just finished a long trip to Korea where he entertained soldiers. The beloved singing comedian "never had heart trouble before," his manager in Hollywood said. "It was sheer exhaustion that killed him."

The 64-year-old Jolson was in his hotel suite, after coming to San Francisco to make a recording with Bing Crosby.

The body of the beloved singer was flown to Los Angeles this afternoon after being viewed by many San Franciscans at a funeral chapel during the morning.

Jewish funeral services will be conducted at Los Angeles by Rabbi Max Nussbaum at noon Thursday at Temple Israel on Hollywood boulevard near the glittering theaters where Jolson's name had often been in lights.

His death was attributed to coronary occulsion, a form of heart attack, caused by either a blood clot or hardening of the arteries.

It came as Al played gin rummy with two friends in his suite. He rallied briefly, joking about the Korean trip, then lapsed into a coma and died.

In Mobile, Ala., Eddie Cantor, on tour, was awakened and told the news.

"There can never be, there never will be another Al Jolson," said Cantor. "But he will not be forgotten because he was one of those rare few who in departing leave behind them footprints on the sands of time."

Actor Larry Parks, who played the part of Jolson in the film, "The Jolson Story," said: "The world not only has lost its greatest entertainer but a great American as well. He was a casualty of the war."

Oil Drum Priority

On another home front sector the NPA acted to break a threatened bottleneck in the shipment of oil, gasoline and food to the armed forces by allowing priority rating for the necessary oil drums, cans and containers.

The priority system does not cover food and petroleum, but firms holding military contracts for those products have notified the Defense Department that deliveries are jeopardized by a shortage of metal containers. NPA therefore authorized the department to grant them use of the priority rating.

Dean Says U. S. Ahead In Atom Weapon Field

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said today the United States is "much better off" in the field of atomic weapons than it was a year ago.

"You can be sure we are stronger than Russia," he said.

Dean gave no figures, however, and declined to speculate whether U. S. atomic strength has increased in proportion to Russia's.

He told a news conference that a site for attempting to manufacture the hydrogen bomb will be announced within a short time.

But he wouldn't say what progress is being made in h-bomb research.

Writing Sentence

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 24 (AP) — A balky motorist who refused to follow a policeman's instructions, today was sentenced by a police magistrate to write 500 copies of the following statement:

"I will always obey the order of a traffic policeman".

Trio Completes 26-Month Voyage Across Atlantic

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Three young British mariners were in New York today after completing a 26-month voyage across the Atlantic in a 40-foot cutter.

The amateur sailors tied up at the Coast Guard pier last night. They arrived with a total of $2.50 in their pockets, their dog and pictures and material for a series of articles on their trip.

The voyage began Aug. 28, 1948, from Falmouth, England. The little ship, the Content, visited Spain, Lisbon, Gibraltar, Tangier, Casablanca, Canary Islands, British Guiana and the British West Indies.

Kickback Charge Denied By Brehm

LANCASTER, O., Oct. 24 (AP)—A widow formerly employed in the office of Rep. Walter H. Brehm (R-Ohio) charged today that he took $7,340 of her salary over a three-year period. Brehm promptly branded the charge as "fantastic."

Mrs. Clara Soliday, 75, Logan, O., sued for recovery of the $7,340 plus an additional $10,000 as "punitvie damages."

The suit was filed in Fairfield County Common Pleas Court by Attorney Hubert D. Lappen, former prosecutor of Hocking county (Logan, Ohio).

Brehm, 58, has represented Ohio's 11th Congressional District for eight years. He is a candidate for re-election Nov. 7.

Reached at his Millersport home, Brehm branded the suit as "absurd and the most cockeyed thing I ever heard of."

"Why it's too fantastic to reply to," he told newsmen.

Brehm added:

"If I were guilty, why did she work for me for three years? Why didn't she leave me sooner? Why did she wait three years after leaving her job to file a damage suit?"

The congressman asserted Mrs. Soliday "has been put up to this thing in order to try to hurt me with my people in this district."

Ford Won't Up Price Of '51 Model Mercury

DETROIT, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. plans no increase in the price of its new 1951 model Mercury automobiles.

Announcing this today Henry Ford II, president, said the decision was taken despite mounting costs and because "we want to be sure we are doing our part in holding the line against inflation."

Ford made no reference to what price action may be taken on the forthcoming new Ford models. His statement intimated, however, that current prices will be retained if such action is at all possible.

Engineers Ask 20% Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers announced tonight it would serve notice Nov. 3 on the nation's railroads asking for a 20 per cent wage increase for engineers in road service.

Atlantic Treaty Nations Support Defense Speedup

Immediate Action Urged By Bradley

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — A speedup of North Atlantic defenses received unanimous support from military representatives of the Atlantic pact nations today, an American spokesman announced tonight.

Gen. Omar Bradley had warned the representatives they must unite in building a common defense now or risk having to use makeshifts "in the face of enemy attack."

On this note of urgency, Bradley opened a round of talks that may lead to creation of a powerful multination military machine designed to stem any march of Communist aggression across Europe.

Recess Until Saturday

At the end of the day's session, a spokesman told reporters that the North Atlantic Military Committee had recessed until 2:00 p. m. (EST) Thursday. He said the purpose of the recess was to allow some members to consult their governments about details raised today.

He said that one small country had proposed to contribute larger forces to the North Atlantic defense setup than the committee's planners had proposed. This offer, it was explained, was made to speedup realization of integrated defenses for the area.

The American spokesman said the small country's offer "spearheaded" the idea of increasing contributions beyond those proposed by committee planners. He said he received the impression that a number of small nations were inclined to take similar action.

Communique Issued

One of the questions on which the committee must act further before making definite recommendations to the North Atlantic defense ministers involves the powers to be given a supreme commander.

In a communique issued by the military committee at the end of its session today, the group said agreements were reached on several important matters to be submitted to the committee of defense ministers, which meets here Saturday.

Vishinsky Toasts Orchestra At Lie's Lunch For Truman

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (INS) — A three-piece orchestra drew a toast from Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky today when it played the marching song of the Russian cavalry at a lunch given by Trygve Lie in honor of President Truman.

The orchestra played the song — "Meadowland' — at Vishinskys request after it had played Edvard Grieg's "I Love You" for Mr. Truman and "The Sidewalks of New York" for U. N. Secretary-General Lie.

George Predicts Tax Hike Despite Victory In Korea

Sees Excess Profits Levy By Christmas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga), a top congressional manager of tax legislation, put the nation on notice to expect further multi-billion dollar increases in taxes, notwithstanding the victory in Korea.

He foresaw:

1. Enactment of a corporation excess profits tax by Christmas—or at least "very early in 1951" to be effective retroactively as of last July 1 or October 1. This bill will be confined strictly to a super tax on excess profits or "war profits."

General Tax Bill Possible

2. The possibility of another general tax bill next year. He did not elaborate on what this next bill would do.

"The successes in Korea," George told newsmen, "do not remove the necessity for additional taxes. We cannot afford not to go ahead with strengthening our defenses — and that costs money."

Some lawmakers feel there is not much likelihood of another general increase in normal individual taxes, unless the world situation worsens.

Congress will reconvene November 27, and the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee are under instruction to present an excess profits tax bill, ready for action at that time.

Record Tax Year Likely

This bill, along with the $4,700,000,000 increase voted just before Congress quit in September, is likely to boost federal tax collections to the highest level on record—even surpassing the top collection of any World War II year, which was $44,800,000,000 in 1945.

Meanwhile, the staffs of experts employed by Congress and the Treasury Department, are tearing their hair trying to find a sound and acceptable formula for an excess profits levy.

Red Plot Bared In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 24 (AP) — The National Defense Department today reported the discovery of a secret plan for recruiting and training a 116,000-man Communist-indoctrinated army to overthrow the Philippines government next year.

The document, attributed by army agents to Hukbalahap Supreme Commander Luis Taruc, was found in the possession of one of six alleged members of the Communist Party secretariat-general, arrested in a series of raids in Manila Oct. 18. The Huks are left-wing guerrillas.

National Defense Secretary Ramon Magsaysay, in a statement, indicated this was one of the documents which impelled the army to request suspension of the writ of habeas corpus.

Peiping Radio, News Agency Report Move

Indicate Invasion Already In Motion

BERLIN, Oct. 24 (AP) — Communist news agencies said tonight that the armies of Red China have been ordered to march on the "lost horizon" country of Tibet and indicated the invasion already was in motion.

ADN, Soviet-licensed news agency of East Germany, quoted the New China news agency, organ of the Chinese Communists as saying:

"Units of the Chinese peoples armies Tuesday received orders to March into Tibet to free the 3,000,000 inhabitants of this country from oppression.

(The Peiping radio made the same announcement.)

The invasion, if the ADN report is true, came just one day short of four months after the North Koreans began their ill-fated march across the 38th parallel on June 25.

Virtually Undefended

Along with Formosa, Indochina, Burma, Yugoslavia and Germany, Tibet has figured in world-wide speculation concerning a possible Kremlin timetable for Communist expansion.

Cloud-shrouded Tibet, one of the most primitive and isolated countries in the world, is virtually undefended except for its 24,000-foot-high mountain peaks.

Pictured as the site of the mythical Shangri-La in the novel, "Lost Horizon," Tibet is ruled by the 15-year-old Dalai Lama and a government of Tibetan Buddist priests.

Although conquered by the Chinese emporors in the 17th century, Chinese rule has not been effective for many years and the country's autonomy has been recognized by China since 1914.

For months, however, Chinese Communists have been threatening to "liberate" Tibet.

Several months ago a Tibetan delegation arrived in New Dedhi, India, to negotiate with Red China representatives. The Chinese Communists were reported to have agreed to the principles of regional autonomy for Tibet, but to have insisted that the negotiations be continued in Peiping, the capital of Red China.

May Already Be On March

New Delhi dispatches Tuesday said the Tibetan delegation was leaving for Peiping tomorrow to seek an accord.

ADN quoted the New China news agency of Red China as saying the Southwest Chinese military district and headquarters of the Second Chinese field army had exhorted troops to fulfill their "honorable duty" in "liberating" Tibet.

Phrasing of the dispatch by ADN, virtually the official voice of Soviet occupation forces in East Germany, indicated the troops already were on the march to Tibet.

"Officers and men and members of the Communist Party of the advancing army units are asked to fulfill their task and thereby demonstrate their deep sympathy for the revolution," ADN quoted the New China news agency.

(No official word of the reported invasion had been received at United Nations headquarters at Lake Success.)

More Alleged Red Leaders Arrested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Justice Department arrested more alleged Communist leaders today in a nationwide drive under the new anti-subversive law.

At the same time the department worked on plans for first steps to meet Communist defiance of the law, which requires registration by the Red party, its members and front groups. The deadline for that registration passed last night with not a name on the books. The party itself appeared the likely first target for action which might begin in a week or two — and probably will take years to get through the courts.

Freedom Bell Dedicated As Nations Split On East-West Lines Mark Birthday Of U. N.

[By The Associated Press]

Countries split on East-West lines of the cold war celebrated the fifth birthday of the United Nations yesterday, each according to its views.

Moscow newspapers told Russia's millions that the U. N. had the choice of going either down "the path of peace" pointed out by the Soviet Union or "the path of the aggressors," meaning the United States and other Western powers.

President Truman suggested in a speech to the U. N. General Assembly in New York that war fears could be dispelled if all nations agreed to a foolproof disarmament program. He proposed that the U.N. combine its talks about atomic control and conventional arms, a step that Russia has sought for four years. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not applaud during the speech and withheld comment later.

U. N. Day declarations from Berlin, the divided city behind the iron curtain in Soviet-occupied Germany, pointed sharply to the differences of opinion as to how final peace can be found.

The Freedom Bell, a 10-ton bronze symbol created for Communist-surrounded West Berlin by U. S. public subscription, was dedicated by Gen. Lucius D. Clay with the pledge "to resist aggression and tyranny wherever they appear on earth." A throng of almost 500,000 Germans applauded. Some wept.

Across the boundary line in Communist-ruled East Berlin, Communist speakers declared the bell was "a war bell, a hunger bell, a death bell" and its rope "will become a gallows rope for those who ring it."

The resonant tones of the Freedom Bell, sponsored by the "Crusade for Freedom" which Clay heads, were carried by radio around the world.

School and church bells were rung in various cities of the United States to celebrate U. N. Day. There were parades and speeches. Blue and white flags of the U. N., first carried into battle in Korea, were presented to various schools.

Stunned Entertainment World Mourns Death Of Al Jolson; Funeral Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24 (AP) — A stunned entertainment world today mourned the passing of Singer Al Jolson.

The immigrant boy whose voice thrilled America for a half century died here last night of a heart attack. He had just finished a long trip to Korea where he entertained soldiers. The beloved singing comedian "never had heart trouble before," his manager in Hollywood said. "It was sheer exhaustion that killed him."

The 64-year-old Jolson was in his hotel suite, after coming to San Francisco to make a recording with Bing Crosby.

The body of the beloved singer was flown to Los Angeles this afternoon after being viewed by many San Franciscans at a funeral chapel during the morning.

Jewish funeral services will be conducted at Los Angeles by Rabbi Max Nussbaum at noon Thursday at Temple Israel on Hollywood boulevard near the glittering theaters where Jolson's name had often been in lights.

His death was attributed to coronary occulsion, a form of heart attack, caused by either a blood clot or hardening of the arteries.

It came as Al played gin rummy with two friends in his suite. He rallied briefly, joking about the Korean trip, then lapsed into a coma and died.

In Mobile, Ala., Eddie Cantor, on tour, was awakened and told the news.

"There can never be, there never will be another Al Jolson," said Cantor. "But he will not be forgotten because he was one of those rare few who in departing leave behind them footprints on the sands of time."

Actor Larry Parks, who played the part of Jolson in the film, "The Jolson Story," said: "The world not only has lost its greatest entertainer but a great American as well. He was a casualty of the war."

Religious 'Freedom' In Communist Hungary Doesn't Mean Teaching It

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA — (AP) — Soviet Russia's Communist satellites in Eastern Europe talk a lot about how their constitutions guarantee religious freedom.

But the Reds' idea is a far cry from the western concept of freedom. Recent developments in Hungary, where Josef Cardinal Mindszenty was jailed for his stand on religious teaching in schools, are an example.

The Hungarians adopted their Communist constitution Aug. 20, 1949. The constitution divorced state and church. As a result, religious training in schools was made voluntary.

Hungary is predominantly Roman Catholic. During the school year 1949-1950, an estimated 80 per cent of school children registered for voluntary religious tuition.

The Communist government accused priests of forcing parents to send their children to religious classes under threat of "hell fire." It shifted religious classes to after school hours.

This year, reports from Hungary show, the Communist government means to make it really difficult. A decree issued by the Ministry of Cults and Education on September 15 says:

"Only those teachers of religion can be appointed who are appropriately qualified." The decree did not define an "appropriately qualified" instructor. But it said, "in case of controversy over a teacher's professional qualifications, the Minsiter of Cults shall make the decision."

This means that only the Communists can decide who is a fit religious teacher.

The control over the teacher extends all the way from the Minister of Cults down to the headmaster.

First, local Communist-controlled county councils "are entitled to refuse to appoint an individual teacher of religion." The councils also "are entitled at any time to cancel an appointment already made if the teacher takes a hostile stand against the Hungarian peoples' democracy."

Thus, if a religious teacher disagrees with the Communists, out he goes. The decree adds: "He cannot be appointed to another school."

Not only the county councils, but their educational authorities and each Communist-appointed headmaster can tell the religious teacher what to say and what he can't.

The headmaster if he has difficulties controlling the opinions of the religious tutor, "can call on the general school inspector, the president of the parent's labor community and a trusted man of the trade union of teachers."

The teacher cannot bring or use his own religious textbooks. The government ruled all textbooks must be approved by the Minister of Cults.

Tennis balls prior to 1914 were handmade and were inflated with a hypodermic needle through a plug in one side. The plug made the ball one-sided.

Nine Men To Be Called By Draft Board No. 27

Medical Advisory Board Has Been Appointed

Draft Board No. 27 has received an induction call for nine registrants and the appointment of three men to the advisory board for the doctor's draft has been announced, according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinaor for Cumberland.

Fahey said the Army-bound men will leave Queen City Station on November 6 at 5:55 a. m. for Martinsburg, W. Va., and assignments to military posts. He listed the draftees as:

Leonard Lee Rice, Flintstone; Albert Joseph Snyder, 116 Seymour Street; Francis Donald Nehring, 509 Caroline Street; Robert Harrison Price, Little Orleans; Francis Melvin Richard, 57 New Hampshire Avenue; Robert Lee Dolly, Route 2, this city; Kermit Franklin England, 33 Hawthorne Avenue; Paul Jeremiah Kimble, Route 2, Flintstone, and Irvin Seth Manges, 313 Arch Street.

Fahey pointed out yesterday's draft call is the fourth to be received here since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea four months ago.

Monday Board No. 30 in Frostburg sent two men, James J. Brailer and Thomas G. Adams, both of Mt. Savage, to Martinsburg for induction. Twenty others received physical examinations.

Named to the medical advisory board are Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, who will report on physicians before they are classified for duty in the Armed Forces; Dr. J. Russell Cook, this city, dentists, and Dr. H. L. Baker, Hagerstown, veterinarians. Eight medical men registered last week for service in compliance with a Presidential proclamation.

Fahey said the same three appointees will serve Board No. 47, Oakland, Garrett county.

County Hears Road Requests

A number of complaints concerning roads and drainage were received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning

W. H. Miller, Mrs. Clara Bloom, and Mrs. W. H. Miller appeared to ask that repairs to a road in the Corriganville section be made.

Thomas H. Wineland, of LaVale, appeared to protest over the alleged building of an obstruction on a road adjacent to his property. He said he wanted the county to do something about the situation, as a neighbor was encroaching upon the roadway.

Wineland was informed the section in question was a private development and he was referred to his attorney for any action.

W. R. Simpson, R. Robeson, G. Paxton and Rev. Lee Sheaffer, of the Evangelical United Brethren Church at Potomac Park, asked that something be done about water draining from a roadway onto church property.

Mrs. Mary Tritt, of Corriganville, appeared to request that a roadway near her home be shaled.

Dayton M. Lewis, of Oldtown, wrote the board to request that Main Street be repaired.

Mrs. Alice Scott, of LaVale, asked road repairs for a thoroughfare near her home.

The Goodwill Club of McCoole wrote the board asking that something be done about the muddy condition of West Street and Maryland Avenue in that community.

The letter was signed by Mrs. Gladys Harris, secretary, and she stated the club realized that work in connection with the McCoole-Keyser bridge was unde... and causing the condition but ... the bad state of repair of the road as being dangerous and inconvenient.

The complaints were referred to County Engineer John J. Smith for investigation and a report back to the board at the meeting on Friday.

Nine Men To Be Called By Draft Board No. 27

Medical Advisory Board Has Been Appointed

Draft Board No. 27 has received an induction call for nine registrants and the appointment of three men to the advisory board for the doctor's draft has been announced, according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinaor for Cumberland.

Fahey said the Army-bound men will leave Queen City Station on November 6 at 5:55 a. m. for Martinsburg, W. Va., and assignments to military posts. He listed the draftees as:

Leonard Lee Rice, Flintstone; Albert Joseph Snyder, 116 Seymour Street; Francis Donald Nehring, 509 Caroline Street; Robert Harrison Price, Little Orleans; Francis Melvin Richard, 57 New Hampshire Avenue; Robert Lee Dolly, Route 2, this city; Kermit Franklin England, 33 Hawthorne Avenue; Paul Jeremiah Kimble, Route 2, Flintstone, and Irvin Seth Manges, 313 Arch Street.

Fahey pointed out yesterday's draft call is the fourth to be received here since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea four months ago.

Monday Board No. 30 in Frostburg sent two men, James J. Brailer and Thomas G. Adams, both of Mt. Savage, to Martinsburg for induction. Twenty others received physical examinations.

Named to the medical advisory board are Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, who will report on physicians before they are classified for duty in the Armed Forces; Dr. J. Russell Cook, this city, dentists, and Dr. H. L. Baker, Hagerstown, veterinarians. Eight medical men registered last week for service in compliance with a Presidential proclamation.

Fahey said the same three appointees will serve Board No. 47, Oakland, Garrett county.

County Hears Road Requests

A number of complaints concerning roads and drainage were received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning

W. H. Miller, Mrs. Clara Bloom, and Mrs. W. H. Miller appeared to ask that repairs to a road in the Corriganville section be made.

Thomas H. Wineland, of LaVale, appeared to protest over the alleged building of an obstruction on a road adjacent to his property. He said he wanted the county to do something about the situation, as a neighbor was encroaching upon the roadway.

Wineland was informed the section in question was a private development and he was referred to his attorney for any action.

W. R. Simpson, R. Robeson, G. Paxton and Rev. Lee Sheaffer, of the Evangelical United Brethren Church at Potomac Park, asked that something be done about water draining from a roadway onto church property.

Mrs. Mary Tritt, of Corriganville, appeared to request that a roadway near her home be shaled.

Dayton M. Lewis, of Oldtown, wrote the board to request that Main Street be repaired.

Mrs. Alice Scott, of LaVale, asked road repairs for a thoroughfare near her home.

The Goodwill Club of McCoole wrote the board asking that something be done about the muddy condition of West Street and Maryland Avenue in that community.

The letter was signed by Mrs. Gladys Harris, secretary, and she stated the club realized that work in connection with the McCoole-Keyser bridge was unde[r] and causing the condition but [not] the bad state of repair of the road as being dangerous and inconvenient.

The complaints were referred to County Engineer John J. Smith for investigation and a report back to the board at the meeting on Friday.

Champions Experiment

Congress this year tried a fiscal experiment. It wrapped up all the appropriations required for running the government into a single omnibus bill. The total amount involved was approximately $36,000,000,000.

There was logic behind the idea. It was argued that if Congress put all expenditures into a single package it would have a better grasp of what it was doing than if it voted money piecemeal in 10 or more separate bills. Proponents contended that various claims could be compared to each other—and that the final total could be cut if it proved to be too big.

So the proposal was given a trial. For a time things went well enough, apparently. But then hitches developed. Congress could not get the huge job done before the 1950 fiscal year ran out, on June 30, which caused confusion. In fact, the bill did not pass until August 28. Many representatives were becoming disillusioned and predictions were freely made, late last summer, that the first omnibus appropriations bill would be the last.

Now it appears that this forecast is by no means certain to materialize. Representative Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is reported to have decided that the innovation was "a great success." He believes the one-package technique made it possible to cut "vast sums" of money from the bill and this could not have happened in former years.

Mr. Cannon thinks it was "particularly fortunate" that Congress was operating under this plan when the Korean war came along. As there was only one bill, he says, it was possible to make a "heavy" cut in nonessential expenditures. He intends to "go ahead with the omnibus measure."

This opinion may not be the last word on the subject. But it is interesting that the experiment pleased the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Mild One Coming Up?

The woolly bears of woolly Bear Mountain, N. Y., have called the winter correctly for two years running. They have again stuck their necks out—if a woolly bear can be said to do that—as to the winter of 1950-51. With a perfect record of hits behind them, naturally they are attracting more attention than the average, or garden variety, of caterpillar.

The third annual woolly bear survey came off under auspicious circumstances in the lovely hills that flank the Hudson River near Bear Mountain, N. Y. Some 60 of the fur-coated specimens were gathered by an assorted group of professional and amateur naturalists, newsmen and kibitzers.

As the woolly bear's predicting device is a sort of cummerbund of dark brown fur, which contrasts nicely with the rest of his orange self, all attention was riveted on the brown bands. As legend goes, broad tummy bands herald a mild winter and narrow markings the opposite.

Broad bands predominated in the surveys of '48 and '49. The '50 average showed the bands to be only a tiny bit narrower than the average for '49. Translated, this is supposed to point to an abnormally mild winter, only a shade less mild than '49.

Now, this precision predicting is hard to ignore, and some people may cancel their fuel orders and skip the annual purchase of anti-freeze on the strength of it. It's a great temptation, but some persons see it as a (pardon the expression) beartrap to snare the unwary.

Is Everybody Crazy?

There is an old story about a man who was convinced everybody was crazy except him and his wife, "and sometimes I'm a bit suspicious about her."

Though this may have been a bit exaggerated, items in the daily news lead to the impression there are many unstable persons in society, if they are to be judged by the things they do. Much violent crime may be laid to those who are certainly off balance mentally.

Eager for more education, a teacher in the University of Michigan started on a career of pursesnatching, with a sideline of arson. A Detroit salesman, attending a convention, went out and beat up eight women and children.

A prominent judge in Indiana is in trouble over hot checks. A trusted woman office employe in Pennsylvania is charged with spending $49,000 of the firm's money betting on the horses.

Motorists are killing each other off at the rate of 100 a day. There is evidence of graft in high places, while a handful of foreigners is said to be more powerful than the courts of the land through political sponsorship.

There is a growing wave of cussedness throughout the land. Human life no longer is sacred, and if man is his brother's keeper he certainly isn't working at it during these troublesome times.

Dollar Vs. 59 Cents

Although there is not the remotest chance that his idea will ever be accepted, Sumner H. Slichter, the Harvard economist, has logic on his side when he urges that government bonds should be redeemable not in the number of dollars specified but in amounts equal in buying power to those paid for the securities.

Plainly this proposal will appeal with particular force to those millions of Americans who bought war and savings bonds with 100 cent dollars and will get back dollars with a purchasing power of 59 cents or less.

No one would be happy to make a suggestion which would have the effect of deterring the American people from buying government bonds. As long as the country needs money, its citizens should make every effort to supply it. In this direction they are achieving mightily.

Adequate Lighting

ADEQUATE LIGHT enhances the ability to work, whether it be in the factory, home, office or schoolroom. The problem involves more than the purchase of a stronger bulb. Glare and the relative brightness of adjoining areas are important considerations, as well as the type of light and the distribution of fixtures.

Room brightness is measured in foot candles and, in the last few years, the minimum for the average schoolroom has been raised from 15 to 30 foot candles. This increase was deemed essential because it was felt that the lower intensity was far below that necessary for top performance. A 20 to 30 foot candle level is satisfactory for office, studies, and libraries. With finer work, such as mechanical drawing and sewing, the choice is 30 to 45. In the gymnasium, 15 to 20 will do, whereas 10 is suitable for auditoriums and cafeterias and 5 for halls and stairways.

• — • — •

No good tests are available to determine how much light actually is needed, because so many extraneous factors are involved. But there is a difference between an adequate and a surplus amount. Illuminations beyond 40 to 50 foot candles are unnecessary for even the most exacting tasks of everyday life. Numerous experiments have been done along this line. While a brighter rooms aids visual effort, most of the improvement is below the 40 foot candle level; beyond that it is so slight as to be of no practical value. The lesson to be learned is that the bounds of adequate lighting need not be exceeded.

Glare impairs vision and creates considerable discomfort and annoyance. It frequently stems from bright sidelights or from the reflection of highly polished surfaces. In a classroom, this can be avoided by raising low hanging fixtures and not using highly glazed paper or polished desk tops, which have a disagreeable effect on the student and are not conductive to concentration and efficiency. The eyes are capable of adjusting to poor illumination. Abraham Lincoln, for example, did very well studying before the fire place and more than one youngster has whipped thru a mystery thriller with the aid of a flashlight beneath the covers of his bed.

But adaptation requires a few minutes and the eyes rebel if they are forced to change from moment to moment, as in marked variations in brightness between one area and another in the field of vision. This explains why the walls next to the windows and the window frames should be light and those around a blackboard ought to be dark. These factors discourage sudden contrasts but when it comes to the material that should be seen, contrast helps. Black type is easier to read against a white background.

In planning good lighting the fixtures should be so arranged that the rays are evenly distributed. The quality of light also is significant and many individuals believe that fluorescent lamps, regardless of color, are disturbing. In reading rooms it has been said that this type of light alters the color of objects or that colors go flat in this environment. As a result, the incandescent tungsten filament or daylight bulb is preferred, altho a recently devised soft white fluorescent tube is said to be less disagreeable than the older types.

OBBING FOR APPLES SEASON

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Henry Stimson Labored For Peace Of His Fellow Men; He tried To Atone For Isolationists' Vetoing Of League Of Nations.

Says DREW PEARSON

EN ROUTE, ON WEST COAST—I do not know what his family will have written on the gravestone of Henry L. Stimson, who died last week, but I do know what I would write. I would write: "Here lies a man who, when all others gave up hope, labored for the peace of his fellow men."

Henry L. Stimson was secretary of state in the Hoover administration when I was a young newspaperman covering the State Department. At first a critic, I grew to respect and love him and to consider him a great man.

As I look back on it I am ashamed of the way I sometimes heckled Mr. Stimson. Bill Flythe of the INS and Lyle Wilson of the UP and I used to think up all sorts of embarrassing questions to ask him at press conferences. And once I induced the late Fiorello La Guardia, then a member of Congress, to tack an amendment on the War Department appropriations bill whereby no money could be spent for Stimson's military aide. A Secretary of State, entrusted with keeping the peace, did not need a military aide. The House of Representatives voted it—though the Senate reversed the House and restored the appropriation.

Looking back on it, and considering the great things Stimson did for peace, he was entitled to the extravagance of a military aide—if it tickled his vanity.

Strove Hard For Peace

Mr. Stimson was a queer mixture. He was secretary of war in two cabinets—Taft's and FDR's. He believed in and fought for a sound military establishment. Yet the real mark he left on history was through his untiring, unrelenting, neverending efforts for peace.

Almost unaided he staged a four-year struggle to rectify the injustices of the Versailles Treaty and stave off the forces which he saw all too clearly were hurtling the world toward war.

An age was dying—an age of international optimism, of disarmament drives and good will, the aftermath of the war to end war. An age was dying, and Henry L. Stimson, sensing the impending tragedy, struggled almost alone to give it renewed life.

Stimson became secretary of state just after Frank B. Kellogg had negotiated the Kellogg-Briand pact to outlaw war. That pact had no teeth and no supporting machinery, and Stimson, sincerely believing in what Kellogg had written, strove to make it work. Realizing the setback that Republican isolationists had given the world when they vetoed the League of Nations, he tried to atone for their mistake.

It was an uphill battle. For his chief in the White House, Herbert Hoover, disagreed with him. So did most of the GOP hierarchy. So did many of the diplomats around him in the State Department.

Ahead Of His Time

But Stimson saw much farther ahead than they. When the Japanese war lords struck in Manchuria in September, 1931, he saw ahead to Pearl Harbor; and perhaps also to present-day Korea. He knew that the minor skirmish on the tracks of the South Manchurian railroad 19 years ago actually was the beginning of a giant military grab for all of Asia.

So Stimson tried to breathe new life into the League of Nations, tried to enforce the nine-power pact guaranteeing the sovereignty of China. Finally he went to Europe, rented a villa on Lake Geneva and called in the chancellors of Europe to urge that aggression in this far-away corner of Asia was a greater threat to peace than the petty squabbles of Europe.

The premiers of Europe listened carefully. But Manchuria was too far off.

Those were dark days in Stimson's villa beside Lake Geneva. His room looked out on an old garden, sheltered by high trees in which roosted flocks of birds. And sometimes, when he could not sleep and work dragged endlessly, Stimson looked out among the poplars, saw again that line of men from the fields, the factories, the sea, going forward; and the line of women, wounded men, exhausted men, going back.

A panorama of his life lay before him, the latter years having been given to rebuilding equity and understanding among the peoples of the world.

And he had failed.

Yet he had not failed. Few men who are in advance of their time live to see the things they strive for finally come to pass. But before he died last week Stimson saw his greatest dream fulfilled.

Set Pace For World To Follow

I was with him in London during the Naval conference when he strove to put across a "consultative pact." The pact merely pledged the United States to "consult" in case war threatened, with no obligation to use troops or even diplomatic pressure. Yet a nervous Herbert Hoover in the White House turned it down.

Before he died, however, Henry L. Stimson saw his government consult with the United Nations over one brief weekend and pass a historic resolution creating an international army to block aggression in Korea.

Furthermore, this historic action was taken in the same contagious corner of the world—Manchuria—where, 19 years earlier, Stimson had tried to stop war, warning that it was the beginning of a great power grab for Asia.

No, Henry Stimson did not fail. He merely set the pace for the world to follow.

Shortly before Stimson died, my brother Leon phoned him, suggesting that he make a recording of his criticism of Senator McCarthy. Courteously, Stimson declined.

"I am not well," he said. "I am making a great effort to keep going. I've come to where I can't do that sort of thing any more. I've got to take care of myself very closely. I have bad arthritis and am on crutches most of the time."

His voice was fairly firm as he said this. Then, almost with a chuckle, he added: "Are you Drew Pearson's brother? Well, give him my regards. He used to make me sweat sometimes."

Thus Henry Stimson, physically crippled, but serene in the knowledge that he had pioneered peace for his fellow men, quietly passed away.

Korea First Installment On Cost Of Past Action

By MARK SULLIVAN

AS IS USUAL with military victories by any country in any war, the principal public reaction to our triumph in Korea is pride in the fact of victory, and this is well justified. But it is an American trait to be so intent upon winning a war that we forget what took us into it and give little thought to what may follow it. Our victory in Korea is not an event standing alone, it is a part of a current of things past and to come.

Seen thus America, in winning the war in Korea, has paid a first installment, not on something new we have acquired but on the cost of a past course of policy and action. That it is a first installment, we recognize clearly. As we count our dead in thousands, and the material cost in billions, we bend our backs to bear more. We are drafting hundreds of thousands of our youth into the armed services, and we are turning a large part of our industry to the production of war goods. For this purpose we as individuals are submitting to onerous controls imposed on us by government which prevent us from building homes and from buying automobiles and many other forms of goods. The deprivations imposed upon us by government controls now beginning to be put in effect are so numerous and far-reaching that radio commentator Morgan Beatty was moved to state a startling fact in an arresting way. America this week, Mr. Beatty said, entered upon a reduced standard of living. Mr. Beatty did not try to say how long this reduced standard will continue. No one can.

Korea and Election

As our victory in Korea takes place and as simultaneously we submit to new sacrifices against the possibility of more war, it happens that the country moves toward a Congressional election, to be held early next month. One wonders which aspect of Korea will be most in the voters' minds, Korea as an elating victory in war, or Korea as one in a long chain of events, the sum of which is not cheering. The chain as a whole is the history of our relations with communist Russia, since that government was first recognized by President Roosevelt in the first year of his administration. And all the events in the chain took place during two administrations, which in ideology and otherwise are in effect one, that of President Truman and that of President Roosevelt. The sum of that 17 years of history is tragic to us.

If the election next month were a presidential one with Mr. Truman running to succeed himself, voters would be likely to think of him as directly responsible for our relations with communist Russia during the five years since he became president, and as having joint responsibility with President Roosevelt for the whole our our relations with communist Russia since 1933. True, Mr. Truman ran for election two years ago and won. But our relations with communist Russia did not figure importantly in that campaign; the Republicans, in a spirit of non-partisanship refrained from making foreign relations an issue. Besides, our relations with Russian communism did not reach the stage of war until the aggression in Korea last June.

Review Called For

However the election next month is not a presidential one, it is for a new Congress. President Truman figures in it only indirectly. Some administration partisans ask the voters to elect a Congress that will support the president's program, but the program these have in mind is mainly the domestic one. Early in the Korean war, when it was not going well for us, Administration partisans put emphasis on the election of members of Congress favorable to the administration because of the importance of the war effort; and Republican spokesmen were careful to declare that the party would, as National Chairman Gabrielson put it, support the war effort "to the hilt." However as respects the administration's conduct of our relations with Communist Russia over a period of years preceding the war, Chairman Gabrielson added that this would "be reviewed completely."

If review of the history of our relations with Communist Russia was called for when the Korean war was in an acute and dangerous stage, it is even more called for when we have achieved victory in Korea and when we are embarking upon an immense program of preparedness that grows out of our relations with communist Russia during a long period past. It is difficult to imagine that the course of Presidents Truman and Roosevelt about communist Russia will not be in the minds of many voters on election day.

Britain's Stand On Red China Not Well Received

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 — Great Britain's scheming diplomacy is making a bad impression in Washington. The latest attempt on the part of the London government to get Communist China into the United Nations through the back door is bound to have serious repercussions when Congress reconvenes.

There are two resolutions before the U. N.—one proposed by Britain, which says the sole criterion for admission of any government should be whether that government controls most of the territory and is obeyed by the bulk of the population. Cuba, on the other hand, is sponsoring a resolution which the United States is formally supporting. It proposes that admission should be based on four points — effective control of the territory, general consent of the population, ability of the applicant government "to achieve the purposes of the U. N. charter, to observe its principles and to fulfill the obligations of the state," and the respect of the applicant for human rights and fundamental principles.

Mindful of Trade

It is apparent that the British, mindful of their trade and commerce in the Far East, recognized Communist China and are now trying to assist the Reds in getting into the U. N.

But the British are in an inconsistent position. They have one policy for Korea and another for Red China. Recently the U. N. adopted a resolution that virtually usurps the sovereignty of the Republic of Korea which had been formally recognized by the U. N. after elections observed officially by a U. N. commission.

Now, although the Korean republic has sent its victorious troops into the north and controls the entire territory, the U. N. endeavors to limit President Rhee's power and undertakes to tell him where he shall or shall not govern. This is a remarkable precedent. In a sense, it confirms the Communist claim that Korea is divided into two parts. British policy, however, was instrumental in pressing this resolution to adoption.

Has the U. N. become in one case a supervisor of the capacity of a nation to rule and not in another? Inasmuch as the resolution, laying down the rules for handling Korea after a war between two factions, is now a United Nations dictum, it is difficult to see why the same standard should not be applied to Communst China.

The U. N., theoretically at least, is obligated now to send its own commission to see if free elections under U. N. auspices can be held in Communist China. Likewise, it has a right to send in a commission to learn at first hand whether the Peiping government means to fulfill the purposes and adhere to the principles of the U. N. charter. Until such explicit assurances are received from Communist China, approval can hardly be given for the admission of that government to the U. N.

Not Sole Criterian

Military control never has been the sole criterion for the extension of diplimatic recognition. The Soviet regime was in complete control of Russian territory for 17 years before the United States in 1933 made an agreement to recognize the Moscow government. That agreement has since been broken and the logic of the situation is to sever diplomatic relations, as so many members of Congress are now demanding.

To admit Communist China, moreover, without finding out what part it played in the North Korean aggression or to retain diplomatic relations with Russia while American boys on ships in Korean waters are being killed by Russian-laid mines is to appease imperialist communism.

Is Great Britain pursuing her course in the belief that the Truman administration itself does not dare to put up an effective fight to defeat the resolution? It doesn't seem possible that the United States cannot marshal enough votes in the assembly of the U. N. to defeat the British resolution if it really tries hard enough. Passage of the British resolution at this time could put a real strain on Anglo-American relations which would be felt in the next Congress. The British should withdraw their own and accept the Cuban resolution.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The American Flag

THE American Defense Society has adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas: the Flag of the United States of America stands for the great American republic and the form of government that has made ours the one country to which people would still come from all the rest of the world and from whose shores there has never been an emigration, and

"Whereas: our Flag stands for equality and opportunity and every freedom guaranteed in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution, and

"Whereas: the Flag of the United Nations, to which the United States belongs, also represents socialist, fascist and communist governments whose ideals are utterly diverse from our own, now therefore be it

"Resolved that the American Defense Society maintains that over the educational institutions of this country should float only our Stars and Stripes, symbol of the 'one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.'"

It would be wise if every patriotic organization in this land adopted a similar resolution and addressed it not only to the local school boards but to the mayors and other elective officials who live in fear of every organized group.

We should put an end to the fantastic notion that somehow we have become absorbed in the United Nations and have lost our being. Sometimes it appears that those who manage the United Nations imagine that they have taken over the United States. It is an aberration that requires correction.

Do the British fly the United Nations flag over their schoolhouses? Do the French? Do the Russians? Do the Indians? Does any other nation regard its arrangements with other nations as subject to United Nations control?

Why is it that some Americans suffer from the inferiority which makes them want to lessen the meaning of the word "American"? They are like the spiritual weaklings who change their names to disguise their origins. They are like the unfortunate man who, having made a great success of his career and life, has to buy a fake genealogy to show that he descends from a medieval robber who was obviously his inferior. Whenever I see one of those things hanging conspicuously in the study or den or whatever you call it, I know that these poor folks are ashamed of their magnificent accomplishments.

The American flag has been good enough for us in our creative years, in the generations when we moved across a continent building a great nation. If it is not good enough for us now, we are indeed justifying Stalin's assertion that we have become a degenerate people. The driving force of Russia is not the internationalism that weak-minded Americans and self-justifying refugees preach in this country; it is an overwhelming nationalism, a pride in slavic achievement. Yet, what have they to be proud of, compared to us?

Apparently some woman got herself hysterical over the United Nations participation in the Korean War and she thought that that was so wonderful that the United Nations flag should fly over the schools. So a little movement started. And, in due course, instead of our children pledging allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, they would pledge allegiance to 58 or 60 or 100 nations.

And when a little movement starts, some little fellow or two get themselves appointed secretary and press agent and before you know it, they collect funds and promote a campaign and smear the opposition. Then it becomes a big movement. The precise moment to step on this is now, when the little movement amounts to nothing.

After all, precisely what has been the contribution of the United Nations in the Korean war? What manpower did the United Nations or its members other than the United States contribute? What wealth, what armaments, what equipment did they provide? What masterly generalship did they produce?

True, it would be a wonderful achievement of international solidarity, if, during the dark weeks before Inchon, all the member-nations sent their contingents to safeguard a brother-nation from attack. Few of them sent contingents; fewer still arrived. Some are still afloat. This has been essentially an American war, fought principally by Americans, led by a great American commander. This is the actual record of the fighting war.

Champions Experiment

Congress this year tried a fiscal experiment. It wrapped up all the appropriations required for running the government into a single omnibus bill. The total amount involved was approximately $36,000,000,000.

There was logic behind the idea. It was argued that if Congress put all expenditures into a single package it would have a better grasp of what it was doing than if it voted money piecemeal in 10 or more separate bills. Proponents contended that various claims could be compared to each other—and that the final total could be cut if it proved to be too big.

So the proposal was given a trial. For a time things went well enough, apparently. But then hitches developed. Congress could not get the huge job done before the 1950 fiscal year ran out, on June 30, which caused confusion. In fact, the bill did not pass until August 28. Many representatives were becoming disillusioned and predictions were freely made, late last summer, that the first omnibus appropriations bill would be the last.

Now it appears that this forecast is by no means certain to materialize. Representative Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is reported to have decided that the innovation was "a great success." He believes the one-package technique made it possible to cut "vast sums" of money from the bill and this could not have happened in former years.

Mr. Cannon thinks it was "particularly fortunate" that Congress was operating under this plan when the Korean war came along. As there was only one bill, he says, it was possible to make a "heavy" cut in non-essential expenditures. He intends to "go ahead with the omnibus measure."

This opinion may not be the last word on the subject. But it is interesting that the experiment pleased the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Mild One Coming Up?

The woolly bears of woolly Bear Mountain, N. Y., have called the winter correctly for two years running. They have again stuck their necks out—if a woolly bear can be said to do that—as to the winter of 1950-51. With a perfect record of hits behind them, naturally they are attracting more attention than the average, or garden variety, of caterpillar.

The third annual woolly bear survey came off under auspicious circumstances in the lovely hills that flank the Hudson River near Bear Mountain, N. Y. Some 60 of the fur-coated specimens were gathered by an assorted group of professional and amateur naturalists, newsmen and kibitzers.

As the woolly bear's predicting device is a sort of cummerbund of dark brown fur, which contrasts nicely with the rest of his orange self, all attention was riveted on the brown bands. As legend goes, broad tummy bands herald a mild winter and narrow markings the opposite.

Broad bands predominated in the surveys of '48 and '49. The '50 average showed the bands to be only a tiny bit narrower than the average for '49. Translated, this is supposed to point to an abnormally mild winter, only a shade less mild than '49.

Now, this precision predicting is hard to ignore, and some people may cancel their fuel orders and skip the annual purchase of anti-freeze on the strength of it. It's a great temptation, but some persons see it as a (pardon the expression) beartrap to snare the unwary.

Is Everybody Crazy?

There is an old story about a man who was convinced everybody was crazy except him and his wife, "and sometimes I'm a bit suspicious about her."

Though this may have been a bit exaggerated, items in the daily news lead to the impression there are many unstable persons in society, if they are to be judged by the things they do. Much violent crime may be laid to those who are certainly off balance mentally.

Eager for more education, a teacher in the University of Michigan started on a career of purse-snatching, with a sideline of arson. A Detroit salesman, attending a convention, went out and beat up eight women and children.

A prominent judge in Indiana is in trouble over hot checks. A trusted woman office employe in Pennsylvania is charged with spending $49,000 of the firm's money betting on the horses.

Motorists are killing each other off at the rate of 100 a day. There is evidence of graft in high places, while a handful of foreigners is said to be more powerful than the courts of the land through political sponsorship.

There is a growing wave of cussedness throughout the land. Human life no longer is sacred, and if man is his brother's keeper he certainly isn't working at it during these troublesome times.

Dollar Vs. 59 Cents

Although there is not the remotest chance that his idea will ever be accepted, Sumner H. Slichter, the Harvard economist, has logic on his side when he urges that government bonds should be redeemable not in the number of dollars specified but in amounts equal in buying power to those paid for the securities.

Plainly this proposal will appeal with particular force to those millions of Americans who bought war and savings bonds with 100 cent dollars and will get back dollars with a purchasing power of 59 cents or less.

No one would be happy to make a suggestion which would have the effect of deterring the American people from buying government bonds. As long as the country needs money, its citizens should make every effort to supply it. In this direction they are achieving mightily.

Adequate Lighting

ADEQUATE LIGHT enhances the ability to work, whether it be in the factory, home, office or schoolroom. The problem involves more than the purchase of a stronger bulb. Glare and the relative brightness of adjoining areas are important considerations, as well as the type of light and the distribution of fixtures.

Room brightness is measured in foot candles and, in the last few years, the minimum for the average schoolroom has been raised from 15 to 30 foot candles. This increase was deemed essential because it was felt that the lower intensity was far below that necessary for top performance. A 20 to 30 foot candle level is satisfactory for office, studies, and libraries. With finer work, such as mechanical drawing and sewing, the choice is 30 to 45. In the gymnasium, 15 to 20 will do, whereas 10 is suitable for auditoriums and cafeterias and 5 for halls and stairways.

• — • — •

No good tests are available to determine how much light actually is needed, because so many extraneous factors are involved. But there is a difference between an adequate and a surplus amount. Illuminations beyond 40 to 50 foot candles are unnecessary for even the most exacting tasks of everyday life. Numerous experiments have been done along this line. While a brighter rooms aids visual effort, most of the improvement is below the 40 foot candle level; beyond that it is so slight as to be of no practical value. The lesson to be learned is that the bounds of adequate lighting need not be exceeded.

Glare impairs vision and creates considerable discomfort and annoyance. It frequently stems from bright sidelights or from the reflection of highly polished surfaces. In a classroom, this can be avoided by raising low hanging fixtures and not using highly glazed paper or polished desk tops, which have a disagreeable effect on the student and are not conductive to concentration and efficiency. The eyes are capable of adjusting to poor illumination. Abraham Lincoln, for example, did very well studying before the fire place and more than one youngster has whipped thru a mystery thriller with the aid of a flashlight beneath the covers of his bed.

• — • — •

But adaptation requires a few minutes and the eyes rebel if they are forced to change from moment to moment, as in marked variations in brightness between one area and another in the field of vision. This explains why the walls next to the windows and the window frames should be light and those around a blackboard ought to be dark. These factors discourage sudden contrasts but when it comes to the material that should be seen, contrast helps. Black type is easier to read against a white background.

In planning good lighting the fixtures should be so arranged that the rays are evenly distributed. The quality of light also is significant and many individuals believe that fluorescent lamps, regardless of color, are disturbing. In reading rooms it has been said that this type of light alters the color of objects or that colors go flat in this environment. As a result, the incandescent tungsten filament or daylight bulb is preferred, altho a recently devised soft white fluorescent tube is said to be less disagreeable than the older types.

OBBING FOR APPLES SEASON

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Henry Stimson Labored For Peace Of His Fellow Men; He tried To Atone For Isolationists' Vetoing Of League Of Nations.

Says DREW PEARSON

EN ROUTE, ON WEST COAST—I do not know what his family will have written on the gravestone of Henry L. Stimson, who died last week, but I do know what I would write. I would write: "Here lies a man who, when all others gave up hope, labored for the peace of his fellow men."

Henry L. Stimson was secretary of state in the Hoover administration when I was a young newspaperman covering the State Department. At first a critic, I grew to respect and love him and to consider him a great man.

As I look back on it I am ashamed of the way I sometimes heckled Mr. Stimson. Bill Flythe of the INS and Lyle Wilson of the UP and I used to think up all sorts of embarrassing questions to ask him at press conferences. And once I induced the late Fiorello La Guardia, then a member of Congress, to tack an amendment on the War Department appropriations bill whereby no money could be spent for Stimson's military aide. A Secretary of State, entrusted with keeping the peace, did not need a military aide. The House of Representatives voted it—though the Senate reversed the House and restored the appropriation.

Looking back on it, and considering the great things Stimson did for peace, he was entitled to the extravagance of a military aide—if it tickled his vanity.

Strove Hard For Peace

Mr. Stimson was a queer mixture. He was secretary of war in two cabinets—Taft's and FDR's. He believed in and fought for a sound military establishment. Yet the real mark he left on history was through his untiring, unrelenting, never-ending efforts for peace.

Almost unaided he staged a four-year struggle to rectify the injustices of the Versailles Treaty and stave off the forces which he saw all too clearly were hurtling the world toward war.

An age was dying—an age of international optimism, of disarmament drives and good will, the aftermath of the war to end war. An age was dying, and Henry L. Stimson, sensing the impending tragedy, struggled almost alone to give it renewed life.

Stimson became secretary of state just after Frank B. Kellogg had negotiated the Kellogg-Briand pact to outlaw war. That pact had no teeth and no supporting machinery, and Stimson, sincerely believing in what Kellogg had written, strove to make it work. Realizing the setback that Republican isolationists had given the world when they vetoed the League of Nations, he tried to atone for their mistake.

It was an uphill battle. For his chief in the White House, Herbert Hoover, disagreed with him. So did most of the GOP hierarchy. So did many of the diplomats around him in the State Department.

Ahead Of His Time

But Stimson saw much farther ahead than they. When the Japanese war lords struck in Manchuria in September, 1931, he saw ahead to Pearl Harbor; and perhaps also to present-day Korea. He knew that the minor skirmish on the tracks of the South Manchurian railroad 19 years ago actually was the beginning of a giant military grab for all of Asia.

So Stimson tried to breathe new life into the League of Nations, tried to enforce the nine-power pact guaranteeing the sovereignty of China. Finally he went to Europe, rented a villa on Lake Geneva and called in the chancellors of Europe to urge that aggression in this far-away corner of Asia was a greater threat to peace than the petty squabbles of Europe.

The premiers of Europe listened carefully. But Manchuria was too far off.

Those were dark days in Stimson's villa beside Lake Geneva. His room looked out on an old garden, sheltered by high trees in which roosted flocks of birds. And sometimes, when he could not sleep and work dragged endlessly, Stimson looked out among the poplars, saw again that line of men from the fields, the factories, the sea, going forward; and the line of women, wounded men, exhausted men, going back.

A panorama of his life lay before him, the latter years having been given to rebuilding equity and understanding among the peoples of the world.

And he had failed.

Yet he had not failed. Few men who are in advance of their time live to see the things they strive for finally come to pass. But before he died last week Stimson saw his greatest dream fulfilled.

Set Pace For World To Follow

I was with him in London during the Naval conference when he strove to put across a "consultative pact." The pact merely pledged the United States to "consult" in case war threatened, with no obligation to use troops or even diplomatic pressure. Yet a nervous Herbert Hoover in the White House turned it down.

Before he died, however, Henry L. Stimson saw his government consult with the United Nations over one brief weekend and pass a historic resolution creating an international army to block aggression in Korea.

Furthermore, this historic action was taken in the same contagious corner of the world—Manchuria—where, 19 years earlier, Stimson had tried to stop war, warning that it was the beginning of a great power grab for Asia.

No, Henry Stimson did not fail. He merely set the pace for the world to follow.

Shortly before Stimson died, my brother Leon phoned him, suggesting that he make a recording of his criticism of Senator McCarthy. Courteously, Stimson declined.

"I am not well," he said. "I am making a great effort to keep going. I've come to where I can't do that sort of thing any more. I've got to take care of myself very closely. I have bad arthritis and am on crutches most of the time."

His voice was fairly firm as he said this. Then, almost with a chuckle, he added: "Are you Drew Pearson's brother? Well, give him my regards. He used to make me sweat sometimes."

Thus Henry Stimson, physically crippled, but serene in the knowledge that he had pioneered peace for his fellow men, quietly passed away.

Korea First Installment On Cost Of Past Action

By MARK SULLIVAN

AS IS USUAL with military victories by any country in any war, the principal public reaction to our triumph in Korea is pride in the fact of victory, and this is well justified. But it is an American trait to be so intent upon winning a war that we forget what took us into it and give little thought to what may follow it. Our victory in Korea is not an event standing alone, it is a part of a current of things past and to come.

Seen thus America, in winning the war in Korea, has paid a first installment, not on something new we have acquired but on the cost of a past course of policy and action. That it is a first installment, we recognize clearly. As we count our dead in thousands, and the material cost in billions, we bend our backs to bear more. We are drafting hundreds of thousands of our youth into the armed services, and we are turning a large part of our industry to the production of war goods. For this purpose we as individuals are submitting to onerous controls imposed on us by government which prevent us from building homes and from buying automobiles and many other forms of goods. The deprivations imposed upon us by government controls now beginning to be put in effect are so numerous and far-reaching that radio commentator Morgan Beatty was moved to state a startling fact in an arresting way. America this week, Mr. Beatty said, entered upon a reduced standard of living. Mr. Beatty did not try to say how long this reduced standard will continue. No one can.

Korea and Election

As our victory in Korea takes place and as simultaneously we submit to new sacrifices against the possibility of more war, it happens that the country moves toward a Congressional election, to be held early next month. One wonders which aspect of Korea will be most in the voters' minds, Korea as an elating victory in war, or Korea as one in a long chain of events, the sum of which is not cheering. The chain as a whole is the history of our relations with communist Russia, since that government was first recognized by President Roosevelt in the first year of his administration. And all the events in the chain took place during two administrations, which in ideology and otherwise are in effect one, that of President Truman and that of President Roosevelt. The sum of that 17 years of history is tragic to us.

If the election next month were a presidential one with Mr. Truman running to succeed himself, voters would be likely to think of him as directly responsible for our relations with communist Russia during the five years since he became president, and as having joint responsibility with President Roosevelt for the whole our our relations with communist Russia since 1933. True, Mr. Truman ran for election two years ago and won. But our relations with communist Russia did not figure importantly in that campaign; the Republicans, in a spirit of non-partisanship refrained from making foreign relations an issue. Besides, our relations with Russian communism did not reach the stage of war until the aggression in Korea last June.

Review Called For

However the election next month is not a presidential one, it is for a new Congress. President Truman figures in it only indirectly. Some administration partisans ask the voters to elect a Congress that will support the president's program, but the program these have in mind is mainly the domestic one. Early in the Korean war, when it was not going well for us, Administration partisans put emphasis on the election of members of Congress favorable to the administration because of the importance of the war effort; and Republican spokesmen were careful to declare that the party would, as National Chairman Gabrielson put it, support the war effort "to the hilt." However as respects the administration's conduct of our relations with Communist Russia over a period of years preceding the war, Chairman Gabrielson added that this would "be reviewed completely."

If review of the history of our relations with Communist Russia was called for when the Korean war was in an acute and dangerous stage, it is even more called for when we have achieved victory in Korea and when we are embarking upon an immense program of preparedness that grows out of our relations with communist Russia during a long period past. It is difficult to imagine that the course of Presidents Truman and Roosevelt about communist Russia will not be in the minds of many voters on election day.

Britain's Stand On Red China Not Well Received

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 — Great Britain's scheming diplomacy is making a bad impression in Washington. The latest attempt on the part of the London government to get Communist China into the United Nations through the back door is bound to have serious repercussions when Congress reconvenes.

The Soviet regime was in complete control of Russian territory for 17 years before the United States in 1933 made an agreement to recognize the Moscow government. That agreement has since been broken and the logic of the situation is to sever diplomatic relations, as so many members of Congress are now demanding.

To admit Communist China, moreover, without finding out what part it played in the North Korean aggression or to retain diplomatic relations with Russia while American boys on ships in Korean waters are being killed by Russian-laid mines is to appease imperialist communism.

Is Great Britain pursuing her course in the belief that the Truman administration itself does not dare to put up an effective fight to defeat the resolution? It doesn't seem possible that the United States cannot marshal enough votes in the assembly of the U. N. to defeat the British resolution if it really tries hard enough. Passage of the British resolution at this time could put a real strain on Anglo-American relations which would be felt in the next Congress. The British should withdraw their own and accept the Cuban resolution.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The American Flag

THE American Defense Society has adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas: the Flag of the United States of America stands for the great American republic and the form of government that has made ours the one country to which people would still come from all the rest of the world and from whose shores there has never been an emigration, and

"Whereas: our Flag stands for equality and opportunity and every freedom guaranteed in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution, and

"Whereas: the Flag of the United Nations, to which the United States belongs, also represents socialist, fascist and communist governments whose ideals are utterly diverse from our own, now therefore be it

"Resolved that the American Defense Society maintains that over the educational institutions of this country should float only our Stars and Stripes, symbol of the 'one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.'"

It would be wise if every patriotic organization in this land adopted a similar resolution and addressed it not only to the local school boards but to the mayors and other elective officials who live in fear of every organized group.

We should put an end to the fantastic notion that somehow we have become absorbed in the United Nations and have lost our being. Sometimes it appears that those who manage the United Nations imagine that they have taken over the United States. It is an aberration that requires correction.

Do the British fly the United Nations flag over their schoolhouses? Do the French? Do the Russians? Do the Indians? Does any other nation regard its arrangements with other nations as subject to United Nations control?

Why is it that some Americans suffer from the inferiority which makes them want to lessen the meaning of the word "American"? They are like the spiritual weaklings who change their names to disguise their origins. They are like the unfortunate man who, having made a great success of his career and life, has to buy a fake genealogy to show that he descends from a medieval robber who was obviously his inferior. Whenever I see one of those things hanging conspicuously in the study or den or whatever you call it, I know that these poor folks are ashamed of their magnificent accomplishments.

The American flag has been good enough for us in our creative years, in the generations when we moved across a continent building a great nation. If it is not good enough for us now, we are indeed justifying Stalin's assertion that we have become a degenerate people. The driving force of Russia is not the internationalism that weak-minded Americans and self-justifying refugees preach in this country; it is an overwhelming nationalism, a pride in slavic achievement. Yet, what have they to be proud of, compared to us?

Apparently some woman got herself hysterical over the United Nations participation in the Korean War and she thought that that was so wonderful that the United Nations flag should fly over the schools. So a little movement started. And, in due course, instead of our children pledging allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, they would pledge allegiance to 58 or 60 or 100 nations.

And when a little movement starts, some little fellow or two get themselves appointed secretary and press agent and before you know it, they collect funds and promote a campaign and smear the opposition. Then it becomes a big movement. The precise moment to step on this is now, when the little movement amounts to nothing.

After all, precisely what has been the contribution of the United Nations in the Korean war? What manpower did the United Nations or its members other than the United States contribute? What wealth, what armaments, what equipment did they provide? What masterly generalship did they produce?

True, it would be a wonderful achievement of international solidarity, if, during the dark weeks before Inchon, all the member-nations sent their contingents to safeguard a brother-nation from attack. Few of them sent contingents; fewer still arrived. Some are still afloat. This has been essentially an American war, fought principally by Americans, led by a great American commander. This is the actual record of the fighting war.

Sweet And Lowbrow

ONE of the things I'm glad I ain't is a dramatic critic—and don't get jumpy; this isn't going to be another of those tired tirades against the gents who separate the clicks from the clucks. In my book, the New York play reviewers — bless their little hearts and peashooters — are a smart set of hombres, and the itching powder they spread around has a lot to do with our theatre being up to scratch. Nevertheless, I'm glad I ain't one of them, and to show you what I mean let's take the case of "Call Me Madam," the new musical which opened the other week.

Billy Rose

Had I gone to the Imperial Theatre opening night in the line of duty, chances are I would have written up the show as most of the reviewers did—part holler-out and part ho-hum. As a conscientious workman, I would have had to point out that the score didn't compare with "Kiss Me, Kate" or "South Pacific"; that its love story was as old as knock-knees, and that as a political lampoon it wasn't in the same class or cosmos with "Of Thee I Sing."

Fortunately, though, I wasn't working that night. Eleanor and I were wearing our gladdest rags, we'd had a nip of after-dinner sherry, and we were at the Imperial for no other reason than to have a good time—no pressure, no perspicacity, no notes on the edge of the program. So we yipped and yokked at Ethel Merman, loved every minute of Paul Lukas, liked the Berlin songs fine, ditto the duBois scenery and costumes, and as for the Lindsay and Crouse book, we found it plenty adequate and in spots a lot better than that.

Sure, if you want to get technical about it, there were moments when nothing much happened on stage, but thanks to George Abbott's direction it generally happened pretty fast, and so, taking the show in toto—and looking at it through the rose-colored specs of Joe Mezzanine—we had a pleasant enough evening . . .

Come to think of it, when it comes to most things cultural, I'm glad I'm a babe in the woods instead of a reforestation expert. Take painting, for instance. If I were an authority on art, I probably wouldn't give Utrillo a second look—his sunshiny street scenes would seem pretty corny compared to the inspired grotesqueries of a Bracque or Picasso. Happily, however, I'm an art-for-orbs-sake man, and so the gay little Utrillo which hangs on my dining room wall continues to look plenty good to me.

The same lowbrow logic governs my taste in music—I'm anything but a hepster in that department, and so the glissandi of a Strauss waltz, although they may offend the sensibilities of a Beethoven lover, are still tops on my personal Hit Parade. And I have the same boob affection for the clip-clop rhymes of Rudyard Kipling, even though, by high-falutin' standards, they may be small spuds compared to the elegant gymnastics of T. S. Eliot. Kipling's Fuzzy-Wuzzy is an old friend of mine; Eliot's Mr. Prufrock I find plain fuzzy.

I guess it boils down to this: when it comes to the arts, lively or otherwise, I like caviar as well as the next fancy-pants, but for a steady diet my taste runs more to hot dogs and soda pop. And for this good and sufficient reason, I guess I'll always be inclined to see the fun rather than the flaws in shows like "Call Me Madam."

Am I quarreling with the drama critics? Heck, no. I'm just darned glad they're them and I'm me.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

A FOREIGN correspondent sat with his ears peeled the other noon . . . He was listening to the Number Two Soviet diplomat in Washington, Mr. Valdimir Bazykin, talking to Mrs. Bazykin . . . The pair had slipped into a boite around the corner from their Embassy on 16th Street . . . The newsman, who speaks Russian fluently, figured they had picked on out-of-the-way spot to talk over something important and private . . . Away from their Embassy, where the walls have ears.

AUSTINE

After stretching and straining his utmost, from behind his newspaper the correspondent heard four sentences . . . During the entire meal, lasting forty-five minutes, the round-faced husband said, "If you're through with your butter, may I eat it?"

The wife answered, "Yes.'

The husband then said the chicken was good.

The wife said so were her pork chops.

The newsman felt an absolute fool for eavesdropping on this uninspired conversation . . . Consoled himself that either they had recognized him behind the newspaper, or that most Soviet couples are so afraid they don't even dare talk to each other.

Speaking of Soviets in Washington, a check in the diplomatic blue book, where addresses and telephone numbers of all diplomats are listed, reveals that none of the Russians lives alone . . . Most of them are married . . . And every couple shares their apartment with another couple.

For instance, five couples live in one 13th Street apartment house . . . Two couples live on Emerson Street . . . Two more on 15th Street . . . And even the few bachelors live with married colleagues . . . Less danger of romantic entanglements with Americans . . . Few of them have telephones listed.

There's an Iron Curtain right here in Washington!

• — • — •

Frances Diehl, widow of Ambrose Diehl, the late steel magnate, was to the West Coast what Perle Mesta was to the East . . . Her political parties after the annual Bohemian Grove meetings always drew famous folk from the four corners.

Recently, however, forceful Republican Mrs. Diehl has not only moved into Perle's former territory in the Capital, she has also started giving parties...And staunch Republican Mrs. Diehl invites Democrats just the way staunch Democrat used to invite Republicans . . . Not only that! . . . Mrs. Diehl's first big party was a reception the other afternoon in honor of—Guess who?—Perle Mesta.

Madame Pandit, India's lady Ambassador, was on hand to shake hands with U. S.'s Mrs. Mesta . . . Treasury Secretary John Snyder puffed out his chest and accepted congrats for his coming grandfatherhood . . . Daughter Drucie expects her little income tax deduction next month.

From the sidelines two old party dogs narrowly watched the festivity . . . One grey-beard commented:

"Social history is made tonight. You watch. I bet Frances Diehl is Perle Mesta's candidate to defeat that Pretender to the Crown Gwen Cafritz. Those two widows, Frances and Perle, are not only smart and merry—they're mischievous. Even if they don't take it seriously, they'll worry the petticoats off Gwen."

• — • — •

New Greek Ambassador, bachelor Athanase Politis, got a straight answer when he wondered out loud to a lady the other afternoon.

Seems he'd been warned about Washington—warned that he'd be chased till he was winded, and wined and dined till he was weak-kneed . . . by the eager ladies in Washington, who rush any eligible male . . . However, confessed the Ambassador, he had not noticed any such wild rushing . . . He wondered what was the matter with him . . . The outspoken lady suggested, "It's true you're an Ambassador, well-dressed, attractive and you know how to kiss hands, but you have one glaring defect, frankly no accent! Washington women expect an alluring foreign accent out of an Ambassador; You speak English much too well!"

But when the Washington Widows find out he's a perfect bridge player, in a class with Greek Premier Venizelos, they'll forgive Ambassador Politis his perfect English.

• — • — •

Still on the same country, the former Greek Ambassador's wife, Mme. Dendramis, returns, and though she hasn't the rank and prestige of an Ambassadress, or an enormous house and staff to manage, she's having a lot of fun . . . Lives in a small N. Y. hotel apartment . . . Draws a salary as a sort of public relations and goodwill spreader for a cosmetics firm.

Old Rail VFW Unit Plans Costume Party

MT. SAVAGE—The Ladies Auxiliary of Old Rail Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a Halloween Party in the VFW club rooms, October 29. Prizes will be given for the best dressed and most comic costumes.

Whether you are blonde, brunette, titian or silver-haired, there's a striking way for you to wear the popular grays!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

ARE you at the mercy of fashion? When styles change do you think the fashionable woman's only course is to follow the leader?

Not so! And to prove it, consider what happened in Paris last season, when the French designers tried to hike the daytime skirt lengths up another notch. The best-dressed French women turned the idea down cold—and the hemline remained around the mid-calf mark. The designer may create a new style, but your power of acceptance or rejection makes or breaks it as a fashion.

You, a Pace Setter

It was your stamp of approval that made gray the current fashion hit that it is. Slumbering in the doldrum, relegated to the demure and the aged, the smoky neutral suddenly caught your fancy as a handsome, accessorizable, practical, daytime uniform. When you saw its fashion worthiness you ordered more, and now you're getting more.

Whether you choose fog, steel, oxford, banker or charcoal gray, as the stylists have named them, the autumn shades are deep, dark and distinguished and worthy of striking treatment. Pick your color type below and you'll learn the secret of spiking gray with individual flare.

New Greek Ambassador, bachelor Athanase Politis, got a straight answer when he wondered out loud to a lady the other afternoon.

Seems he'd been warned about Washington—warned that he'd be chased till he was winded, and wined and dined till he was weak-kneed . . . by the eager ladies in Washington, who rush any eligible male . . . However, confessed the Ambassador, he had not noticed any such wild rushing . . . He wondered what was the matter with him . . . The outspoken lady suggested, "It's true you're an Ambassador, well-dressed, attractive and you know how to kiss hands, but you have one glaring defect, frankly no accent! Washington women expect an alluring foreign accent out of an Ambassador; You speak English much too well!"

But when the Washington Widows find out he's a perfect bridge player, in a class with Greek Premier Venizelos, they'll forgive Ambassador Politis his perfect English.

Still on the same country, the former Greek Ambassador's wife, Mme. Dendramis, returns, and though she hasn't the rank and prestige of an Ambassadress, or an enormous house and staff to manage, she's having a lot of fun . . . Lives in a small N. Y. hotel apartment . . . Draws a salary as a sort of public relations and good-will spreader for a cosmetics firm.

Whether you are blonde, brunette, titian or silver-haired, there's a striking way for you to wear the popular grays!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

ARE you at the mercy of fashion? When styles change do you think the fashionable woman's only course is to follow the leader?

Not so! And to prove it, consider what happened in Paris last season, when the French designers tried to hike the daytime skirt lengths up another notch. The best-dressed French women turned the idea down cold—and the hemline remained around the mid-calf mark. The designer may create a new style, but your power of acceptance or rejection makes or breaks it as a fashion.

You, a Pace Setter

It was your stamp of approval that made gray the current fashion hit that it is. Slumbering in the doldrum, relegated to the demure and the aged, the smoky neutral suddenly caught your fancy as a handsome, accessorizable, practical, daytime uniform. When you saw its fashion worthiness you ordered more, and now you're getting more.

Whether you choose fog, steel, oxford, banker or charcoal gray, as the stylists have named them, the autumn shades are deep, dark and distinguished and worthy of striking treatment. Pick your color type below and you'll learn the secret of spiking gray with individual flare.

Marshall Says War Is Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Marshall said today if things keep working out as they are there will be no war.

Without explaining this short statement on war, he told the National Guard Association of the United States that the citizens army, the guard, is a great world force for peace.

The Defense Secretary said if the National Guard forces were more readily available, to meet any crisis, this would help change the world picture.

He said he didn't mean the actual calling out of the guard to meet a crisis. But he said the fact that a great citizens' army was in being and ready for any emergency would have great effect.

Explaining availability, he said the National Guard must be strengthened and trained, and training takes time. Some way must be found to overcome this handicap and make the guard much more readily available in emergencies than is possible under present law, he added.

Woman Is Indicted In Ice Box Slaying

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 24 (AP) — A grand jury today indicted Mrs. Lois Tipp on a first degree murder charge in the ice box slaying of her eight-year-old-son, Bobby.

The child was found stuffed in an unused refrigerator in Mrs. Tipp's tavern two days after she reported him missing. He had been shot twice and wrapped in a sheet. The 38-year-old woman said a foul odor attracted her to the ice box.

Tydings Charges GOP "Smear Campaign"

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Oct. 24 (AP) — Sen. Tydings (D-Md) declared today that the Republican Policy Committee planned a "smear campaign" against him to cover up its own party's "worst record in history."

A candidate for a fifth consecutive term, Tydings and other members of the statewide Democratic ticket, spoke at a party rally here.

Tydings referred to the Senate committee he headed which investigated charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

Only 258 Marylanders Ask Absentee Ballots

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—Maryland's Secretary of State has received only 258 requests for absentee ballots from servicemen.

An estimated 3,000 Marylanders in uniform are eligible to vote in the general election if Secretary Vivian V. Simpson receives their requests for ballots by the November 2 deadline.

This leaves only nine days—not much time for those in Korea.

It is being replaced by a new device designed to eliminate racketeering by fakers. The new device is copyrighted and patented and is a box in the form of a shield. It is made of plastic, is equipped with a lock, and has a slot in the top for contributions.

Besides the Silver Star and Purple Heart decorations, he also received the Croix de Guerre with Bronze Star, awarded by the French government for "exceptional services rendered during the occupation of France."

Rev. Frith was commissioned a reserve officer upon being graduated from Akron University. An expert rifleman, he placed second at the National Rifle Meet at Camp Perry, O., in 1929 while a member of the Seventh Corps Area team. Before the war he was a Baptist minister at Roanoke, Va.

His Silver Star citation reads, in part:

"Under the heaviest enemy fire Chaplain Frith ministered to the wounded and dying. He went forward with the leading reconnaissance elements to aid in locating positions for first aid stations. He inspired officers and men to greater efforts and was a determining factor in the maintenance of a high degree of morale among the troops."

Rev. Frith succeeds Rev. J. C. Ledbetter, who organized the LaVale Baptist Church and served as its pastor until leaving late last spring.

Since that time Rev. W. D. Reese of Frostburg has served as supply pastor. Rev. Reese will preach his concluding sermon at the church this Sunday.

You wouldn't compare a 1935 jalopy with any new car . . .

An up-to-date comparison of all ranges proves —

Your best buy in cooking is an automatic GAS RANGE

It's not just a matter of style, although today's gas ranges—like today's automobile—are far more beautiful than their predecessors of a few years back. Mechanical improvements in gas ranges are equally as sensational as those in the modern automobile . . . so when you're considering a new range, make certain that your comparison is based on 1950 models—not on the old gas range you're using, or the one your mother had. Here are some facts that will help you judge the merits of modern cooking equipment.

Only with GAS

—can you cook food the way it should be—at the right temperature—because you have hundreds of different heats to choose from. Cooking doesn't take as long with gas, either, and food tastes better!

Compare Costs

—and you'll find a whale of a difference! You can own a new automatic gas range for from $30 to $100 less than others. You can have it set up cheaper . . . you can cook on it for less. You'll have no expensive burners to replace, for gas burners don't wear out.

Better Baking

Cake layers are look-alikes when they come out of the oven of an automatic gas range—baked evenly all the way through, even though baked on different shelves. Pies, casserole dishes,—anything bakes better in your automatic gas oven.

Really Clean!

The longer you have your automatic gas range, the more you'll like it. When it comes time to clean it—you'll be doubly thankful. Just lift burners and drip pans out, wash them, put them in again. It's that simple.

Broiling with GAS

—is a delight. No smoke gets into the kitchen. The gas flame eats it all up.

No blackened pans

Blackened pans went out years ago! Now pans stay clean with gas that's properly adjusted. You know that when you broil food with gas, it's clean!

Look at the new Automatic GAS Ranges at your Dealer's or Gas Company office and see for yourself that your best cooking buy is an Automatic GAS Range.

Cost Of County Primary Election Is Set At $16,164

The recent county primary election, registration and revision days cost $16,164.52, according to figures submitted to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners by Mrs. Johanna Sills, county auditor.

It is estimated that the cost of the general election will not be quite as large with only one day's pay, plus any overtime for poll workers and the cost of printing ballots.

Meanwhile, a local printing concern has completed an order for 43,000 ballots to be used in the general election. This is one-third more ballots than there are registered voters as this is required by state law.

Six Amendments Listed

There are 40 names of candidates on the ballot, six constitutional amendments and one referendum (The Ober Law) to be acted upon.

The ballot will contain the following candidates:

For Governor—William Preston Lane, Jr., Democrat, and Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican.

For U. S. Senator—John Marshall Butler, Republican; Sam Fox, Progressive, and Millard E. Tydings, Democrat.

For Congress—J. Glenn Beall, Republican, and Russell Peter Hartle, Democrat.

For Attorney General—William A. Gunter, Republican, and Hall Hammond, Democrat.

For Comptroller—J. Millard Tawes (unopposed).

For Judge of Circuit Court—Morgan C. Harris, Republican, Edward J. Ryan, Democrat.

For Clerk of Court—Joseph E. Boden, Republican (unopposed).

For County Treasurer—Frederick C. Dreyer, Republican (unopposed)

For Register of Wills—A. Charles Stewart, Republican (unopposed).

For Sheriff—Graydon S. Dunlap, Democrat, and Edward R. Muir, Republican.

For County Commissioner—James Holmes, William H. Lemmert and James Orr, all Republicans, and F. Allan Weatherholt, Democrat.

Kimble Unopposed

For State Senator — Robert B. Kimble, Republican, (unopposed).

For Clerk to County Commissioners—James G. Stevenson (unopposed).

For House of Delegates—Thomas G. Barton, Charles J. Burke, Stephen L. Cesnick and Leslie J. Clark, all Democrats; Noel Spoir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, Estel C. Kelley, all Republicans; Alexander Nicol, Democrat; Lester B. Reed, Republican; W. Ewald Ruehl, Democrat; Charles M. See, and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., both Republicans.

For Judge of Orphans Court—William C. Abbott, Hugh Stevenson and J. French Van Meter, all Republicans and unopposed.

The constitutional amendments have not been much publicized but the referendum measure on the ballot has been in the news constantly.

This is the controversial Ober Law which pertains to subversives.

Local GI Is First At Atrocity Site

Sgt. Robert R. Rexrode, husband, of Mrs. Eunice E. Rexrode, 107 Henry Street, Cumberland, and son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rexrode, Grantsville, was one of the first on the scene of the atrocity in which 73 American soldiers were found shot or starved near Sunchon, Korea.

Sgt. Rexrode, a member of the 187th Airborne Infantry of the 11th Airborne Division, recently was awarded a combat medical badge.

Rexrode, who joined service September 24 at Fort Campbell, Ky., and saw action on Kimpo Peninsula, northwest of Seoul, came on the scene during the confused minutes after the Red atrocity was discovered, according to Richard K. Tucker, Baltimore w[illegible]rrespondent.

Tucker said most of the 20 survivors of the barbarianism of the Reds were wounded and had been left for dead. Only South Korean nurses and medics were at hand.

Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, assistant division commander of the First Cavalry Division, told Tucker: "All they can do is apply bandages. They have no morphine or other shots. But this will help."

The general was apparently referring to Sgt. Rexrode because in Tucker's words here's what happened:

"Then one of the most welcome sights of the day appeared. Some one had got word through to airborne units several miles away and an American medic, Sgt. Robert R. Rexrode, of Cumberland, Md., who had jumped with paratroopers the day before, came rushing up.

"One man lay by the track with a leg nearly destroyed by enemy gunfire. Rexrode gave him a quick, merciful shot in the arm to ease the pain and started tearing away clothing to treat the wounds."

"Peace On Earth" Is Hope Here On U. N. Day

Schools, Churches And Public Mark Fifth Year

Cumberlands pealed bells and expressed their hope for world peace as they joined the nation in the observance of the fifth anniversary of the United Nations.

The city's high schools held special assemblies. At Allegany, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson spoke; Attorney John Mackey spoke before the student bodies of LaSalle and Catholic Girls Central; Attorney John M. Robb at Fort Hill and Earle L. Bracey at Carver. Attorney Julius E. Schindler addressed a radio audience.

Rebroadcast Set

Howard M. Spiker, past commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, presided at the brief program in City Hall. Prayers were given by ministers of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths. They were Rev. Arthur Scrogum, president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association and pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren; Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Church; and Rabbi H. J. Wilner of B'er Chayim Congregation.

Commissioner of Finance William H. Buchholtz, who was chairman of the United Nations Day Committee, read the city's proclamation.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, in delivering the keynote address at City Hall, said peace through united action "suggests the whole U.N. idea of nations working together for a common goal."

Emphasizing that the U.N. has given the world a center of balance, the Mayor said "we join with Americans throughout the land in paying tribute to the success of this organization and extending every good wish for its future development."

Dailey Draws Applause

The youth of the nation whom the U.N. actions of today will affect greatly in the years to come, had its say yesterday morning and was soundly applauded by the gathering of approximately 50 in the auditorium.

Speaking as representative of youth of the city was Richard Dailey, Fort Hill High School senior, who traced in word pictures what democracy means. Pointing out that the "way we live and our folk life" has been "fought for since the beginning of time," young Dailey listed its advantages of men working and living together, the government as a tool of the people and the "dignity and self respect" which it lends to the individual.

Effective Machinery

At Allegany, Gibson termed the machinery of the United Nations as the "only effective instrument, yet devised, for preventing an all-out war."

Flags were displayed in observance of the day. At noon, the Crusade For Freedom joined the observance by ringing the huge Liberty Bell at the city hall in Berlin, Germany. Names of Americans signing the Freedom Scroll will be inscribed on the bell.

Berlin has the world's largest open air movie. It has a seating capacity of 22,000.

Moose Official Coming Soon

Coming here to officiate at the initiation program of Cumberland Lodge No. 271 on Sunday, November 5, is Albert H. Ladner, Jr., of Philadelphia, past supreme governor of the Loyal Order of Moose, and current general counsel of the organization, according to Lonnie Jackson, governor of the local lodge.

Besides his post as general counsel Ladner belongs to the membership activities committee, and is chairman of the Mooseheart and Moosehaven Service Board.

The local ceremony will start at 3 p. m. and will be followed by a spaghetti dinner for the class of candidates, their sponsors and lodge members.

A membership drive is underway by the local Moose lodge with William R. Carscaden and William G. Beier captains of one team and Jack Vernall and Robert Snyder captains of the other team.

The goal for the current drive is 150 members and it is hoped to reach 1,500 by January 1.

The members of the losing team will serve the winning side at the November 5 dinner.

Governor Jackson said the local lodge members contribute a portion of their dues for the upkeep of Mooseheart, and the Child City, which is the home of the five Fulk Children of Bowman's Addition.

Look what Tydings did to make America stronger!

A strong America is the world's best hope for peace. Millard E. Tydings has done more to make America strong than any other man in the United States Senate. He has introduced and fought for more defense legislation than any member of Congress. Under his leadership the Military Affairs Committee has awakened the whole country to a full understanding of its responsibilities in a troubled world. Here are some of the key measures for which Tydings is responsible. It's a record any Senator could be proud of. Read it!

1. The 70 group Air Force bill increasing the size of the United States Air Forces.
2. The building of a radar screen across North America to detect the approach of enemy planes carrying bombs.
3. The United States Code of Military Justice establishing the same procedures for the Army, Navy and Air Forces.
4. The amendments to the Unification Act to eliminate duplications of service in the Army, Navy and Air Force and make the defense dollar go farther.
5. The Military Assistance Bill helping to rearm the Democratic countries against Russian communistic expansion.
6. The G. I. Bill of Rights to give veterans compensation for their services to their country.
7. The Tydings-Selective Service Amendment to keep essential and irreplaceable farm labor on the farms for the production of food necessary to winning the war.
8. The Philippine Independence Act which gave us a democracy in the Philippines and won for us the loyalty of 18 million Filipinos who fought by our side in World War II.
9. The Military Public Works Bill increasing the defenses in Alaska, in the Pacific and in the United States.
10. The Wherry-Tydings bill for extra defense installations, research and housing on the building association plan for the United States and its possessions.
11. The Guided Missile Range bill to provide a range for the development of guided missiles for long range bombardment of enemy countries.
12. The Experimental Submarine Bill to build submarines capable of hunting down and destroying other submarines.
13. The Wind Tunnel Bill to provide tests for planes flying faster than sound so as to save lives and money through proper tests before construction.

Time Magazine calls Millard Tydings one of the ten leading members of the United States Senate. He's Chairman of the Armed Services Committee (one of the 15 standing committees of the United States Senate). He's a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. He's the only member of the Senate who serves on all these of these important committees. He has fought a long and continuing fight on goverment waste and for economy in government expenditure. He has introduced more bills to strengthen our national defense than any man in the Senate. He is an independent —a good man in a good spot!

School Census Takers Begin Work Today

Biennial Enumeration To Be House-To-House

Allegany County Board of Education begins the school census today in the biennial enumeration required by law.

The census will be conducted on a house-to-house basis this year with the county's public school teachers, more than 500, selected to do the counting. Heretofore, the census was conducted at the schools.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel of county schools and census coordinator, said two half-days will be required to complete the job, with the big army of enumerators taking the field this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon between the hours of 1 and 5 o'clock. Schools will be closed both afternoons.

The coordinator said every house in the county will be visited, with Friday set as the day for "mopping up" of places missed. If, after this date, parents of children not in school and not contacted by a census taker are asked to supply the necessary information to the Board of Education office.

The census, according to Higgins, will be simple and will take up little time of those answering the questions. The idea of the enumeration is to anticipate building and teacher needs for the future and consequently embarrassing questions will not be asked.

Essentially, here is what the enumerators want to know:

Full name of father or guardian, full name, including maiden name of mother or guardian, the exact location of every home and the full name of each child, along with the date and place of birth.

Much preliminary work has been done on the census and the county will be divided into territories with elementary school principals serving as administrators in their districts.

Parochial schools are cooperating in the venture and their findings have already been turned over to Higgins. However, the parochial census was not on a house-to-house basis and all homes will still have to be checked by public school teachers in order to coordinate the data.

Other purposes of the enumeration are to determine the number of children of compulsory school age not attending classes that their cases may be investigated, and to provide information concerning older youths, their status of employment or attendance at school.

Even those attending colleges or schools out of town, but whose parents are county residents, are to be enumerated. Out-of-state students attending county schools are not to be counted.

A special file will be kept on children who are handicapped and the completion of the census, a summary will be sent to the State Department of Education.

Glaze Won 17, Lost 2 — Grid Star Seeks Title

Sacrificing For Money — Dicken Blows Stack

By C. V. BURNS

The best pitching performance turned in by any of the sandlotters in the tri-state area this season is credited to Bob Glaze, veteran right hander of the Oakland, (Md) Amvets, pennant and playoff winner in the Mountain Top Baseball League.

Glaze roared through the regular schedule with a 13-2 record, beating all of the other seven teams in the circuit one or more times and averaging about nine strikeouts per game.

His wins were over Accident 16-8, 13-1 and 7-6 Kitzmiller 8-1, 17-1 and 4-2, Friendsville 13-0 and 26-4, Terra Alta 9-0 and 9-2, Bittinger 6-5, Swanton 9-1 and Crellin 8-6.

The two losses on Glaze's record were both by the margin of a whisker. He dropped a 4-3 decision to Sam Migliccio, Crellin's mound ace, and lost a 3-2 duel to Leo Rinker of the Swanton Dodgers.

Glaze blazed through the playoffs, registering four straight, to wind up the season with a victory streak of nine games. The Oakland team reeled off 11 consecutive at the finish of the campaign.

Bob whipped Crellin 7-2, 6-0 and Accident 17-2 and 5-3 to lower the curtain on a glorious season in which his record was 17 wins and two losses for an average of .895.

Glaze's battery mate was the capable veteran Ray McManus who has handled the slants of many twirlers since way back.

The following letter was received yesterday from L. Laurin Swisher, of New Creek, (Mineral County) W. Va.—

Dear Sir:

"In Tuesday issue (Oct. 17) you asked the question—'why does the State of Maryland open its season on squirrels so early when in so doing mother squirrels are killed while still suckling?'

"The answer is simple—it's money.

"If you will notice dates on all small game you will find Maryland usually opens its season two weeks earlier than West Virginia. The same is usually true on deer season. This staggering of dates of open seasons enables more out-of-state licenses to be sold since West Virginia hunters go to Maryland and vice versa.

"This pours the money into both states' game and fish treasuries.

"As you state—it's deplorable that mother squirrels should be slaughtered but after all we sacrifice anything for money.

"While on the subject of small game, it is evident to me as a land-owner for thirty years in this section of the state and a hunter of small game since I was a boy, that small game such as squirrels, turkeys, etc., is fast disappearing from this section of the state of West Virginia.

"There should be established more game refuge areas or certain areas closed for three-year periods in order to bring our small game up to standard.

"We now have deer because female deer are protected and, of course, are easily spotted by the hunter. But female small game are legal prey and an intelligent program of restocking coupled with closed seasons in areas will do more to restock our depleted small game."

When the Bi-State Baseball League playoff series between Keyser and Westvaco wound up at three wins each and co-champions were declared October 15 by President Blaine McKenzie because the teams couldn't get together for the 7th and deciding game it met with the disapproval of Carl "Pete" Dicken, league secretary-treasurer, and many of the fans who had followed the teams throughout the season.

It seems that the Bi-State's rules specify that the champion and runner-up shall receive 50 and 30 per cent of the receipts in the final series, that the 1st place finisher at the close of the regular schedule (Hyndman Firemen) get 10 per cent and the league a similar cut.

Westvaco and Keyser already have collected a portion of the playoff receipts and the league is still holding 20 per cent, according to Dicken.

Dicken argues that since there is no champion or runner-up and the series was unfinished the receipts should go to the league with the exception of the 10 per cent earned by Hyndman. He contends that the rules do not provide for co-champions and that the teams violated the rules by not finishing the series, thus forfeiting their share of the receipts.

Perfect weather prevailed and Dicken declares the teams owe it to the fans who have paid to see them play all season to finish out the series.

The week Oct. 16 through 22 was ideal for baseball and that's when the teams tossed in the sponge.

The Tigers overcame a six-run deficit in the 6th inning to tie the score at 10-all. The defending champs were held scoreless in their half of the 7th but the Tigers won out in their half when Miller slammed a homer with one aboard.

Rickey Disposes Of Dodger Stock

Expected To Leave, Reese May Be Pilot

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN, Oct. 24 (AP) — Branch Rickey's two partners decided today to buy up his 25 per cent interest in the Brooklyn Dodgers for a reported $1,050,000 to gain control of the club.

Branch Rickey

Walter O'Malley, Dodger vice president, said he and Mrs. John L. Smith, intend to "exercise prior rights" on Rickey's stock "well in advance" of the late January deadline. O'Malley and Mrs. Smith each own 25 per cent of the stock. The other 25 per cent is owned by Mrs. James Mulvey, daughter of the late Steve McKeever.

Rickey's future with the Dodgers will be determined Thursday at a meeting of the Brooklyn board of directors. His contract as president and general manager expires Saturday.

The consensus is that it will not be renewed. The rumor mart has Rickey bound for Pittsburgh.

William Zeckendorf, the New York real estate man to whom Rickey agreed to sell Sept. 23 said he offered $1,050,000 for the stock. However, Rickey's two partners had "first and final refusal" to buy at the same terms.

If Rickey leaves, as seems likely, Manager Burt Shotton is not expected to return. The early guessing on his successor already has shortstop Pee Wee Reese in first place.

Ford Accepted For Army Duty

Yankee Star Is 3rd Major Hurler Called

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Ed (Whitey) Ford, rookie lefthanded pitcher of the New York Yankees, was accepted for army duty today. He was 22 Saturday.

Ford, who came up from the Yankees' Kansas City farm in midseason, won nine games and lost one after joining the club. He generally is regarded as having given the club help it needed to win the American League pennant. He was the victor in the fourth and deciding game of the world series.

He is the third outstanding young pitcher to be tapped for military service since the beginning of the Korean war. First to go was Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phils, in September.

Then Art Houtteman of the Detroit Tigers, was called shortly after the season ended.

Ford took his first physical before the campaign closed and then was re-examined again on Oct. 10 because doctors found traces of an intestinal infection he had picked up in Mexico two years ago.

The second examination was followed by a three-day stay in a government hospital at Fort Jay, Lt. Col. William A. Haviland, commanding officer of the Southern New York-New Jersey recruiting district, said today the additional tests cleared the way for Ford's induction.

Glaze Won 17, Lost 2 Sacrificing For Money

Grid Star Seeks Title Dicken Blows Stack

By C. V. BURNS

The best pitching performance turned in by any of the sandlotters in the tri-state area this season is credited to Bob Glaze, veteran right hander of the Oakland, (Md) Amvets, pennant and playoff winner in the Mountain Top Baseball League.

Glaze roared through the regular schedule with a 13-2 record, beating all of the other seven teams in the circuit one or more times and averaging about nine strikeouts per game.

His wins were over Accident 16-8, 13-1 and 7-6 Kitzmiller 8-1, 17-1 and 4-2, Friendsville 13-0 and 26-4, Terra Alta 9-0 and 9-2, Bittinger 6-5, Swanton 9-1 and Crellin 8-6.

The two losses on Glaze's record were both by the margin of a whisker. He dropped a 4-3 decision to Sam Migliccio, Crellin's mound ace, and lost a 3-2 duel to Leo Rinker of the Swanton Dodgers.

Glaze blazed through the playoffs, registering four straight, to wind up the season with a victory streak of nine games. The Oakland team reeled off 11 consecutive at the finish of the campaign.

Bob whipped Crellin 7-2, 6-0 and Accident 17-2 and 5-3 to lower the curtain on a glorious season in which his record was 17 wins and two losses for an average of .895.

Glaze's battery mate was the capable veteran Ray McManus who has handled the slants of many twirlers since way back.

The following letter was received yesterday from L. Laurin Swisher, of New Creek, (Mineral County) W. Va.—

Dear Sir:

"In Tuesday issue (Oct. 17) you asked the question—'why does the State of Maryland open its season on squirrels so early when in so doing mother squirrels are killed while still suckling?'

"The answer is simple—it's money.

"If you will notice dates on all small game you will find Maryland usually opens its season two weeks earlier than West Virginia. The same is usually true on deer season. This staggering of dates of open seasons enables more out-of-state licenses to be sold since West Virginia hunters go to Maryland and vice versa.

"This pours the money into both states' game and fish treasuries.

"As you state—it's deplorable that mother squirrels should be slaughtered but after all we sacrifice anything for money.

"While on the subject of small game, it is evident to me as a land-owner for thirty years in this section of the state and a hunter of small game since I was a boy, that small game such as squirrels, turkeys, etc., is fast disappearing from this section of the state of West Virginia.

"There should be established more game refuge areas or certain areas closed for three-year periods in order to bring our small game up to standard.

"We now have deer because female deer are protected and, of course, are easily spotted by the hunter. But female small game are legal prey and an intelligent program of restocking coupled with closed seasons in areas will do more to restock our depleted small game."

When the Bi-State Baseball League playoff series between Keyser and Westvaco wound up at three wins each and co-champions were declared October 15 by President Blaine McKenzie because the teams couldn't get together for the 7th and deciding game it met with the disapproval of Carl "Pete" Dicken, league secretary-treasurer, and many of the fans who had followed the teams throughout the season.

It seems that the Bi-State's rules specify that the champion and runner-up shall receive 50 and 30 per cent of the receipts in the final series, that the 1st place finisher at the close of the regular schedule (Hyndman Firemen) get 10 per cent and the league a similar cut.

Westvaco and Keyser already have collected a portion of the playoff receipts and the league is still holding 20 per cent, according to Dicken.

Dicken argues that since there is no champion or runner-up and the series was unfinished the receipts should go to the league with the exception of the 10 per cent earned by Hyndman. He contends that the rules do not provide for co-champions and that the teams violated the rules by not finishing the series, thus forfeiting their share of the receipts.

Perfect weather prevailed and Dicken declares the teams owe it to the fans who have paid to see them play all season to finish out the series.

The week Oct. 16 through 22 was ideal for baseball and that's when the teams tossed in the sponge.

Steve Says It Again

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP) — Steve Van Buren, the record-owning halfback of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles, said today this is his last year of football. He's said it before, but this time Steve insists he means it.

"Next year I'm not even going to read about football," he said.

Van Buren, owner of the all-time ground gaining record in the NFL, has been hampered by injuries all season.

Pitching Distance .ittle Leagues Boosted To 44 Feet

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — The board of directors of the Little League, national baseball organization for boys 8 to 12 years old, made two radical changes today in playing rules.

Because of an epidemic of no-hit games, they decided to increase the distance between the pitcher's mound and home plate from 40 feet 4 inches to 44 feet. This is expected to improve the batters' chances.

The other change permits a base runner to advance only on a batted ball or when a play is made on him. Previously a runner could advance any time after a pitched ball had passed the batsman, but because of the players' inexperience, it was found that this offered too many opportunities to run on wild pitches or passed balls.

Graziano Is Fit

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—Rocky Graziano, who meets Tony Janiro in the 10 round main event Friday at Madison Square Garden, was described as in top condition today.

Ralph Zannelli Pays $350 To Regain T...e

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 24 (AP)—Ralph Zannelli had to pay $350 to regain his New England welterweight title last night.

It happened this way:

Zannelli agreed to take 50 per cent of the net receipts and guarantee his opponent, Don Williams, $2,000.

But only 2,566 persons showed up and the net receipts were only $3,300. Thus Zannelli collected $1,650 as the 50 per cent share.

So he fought for nothing and had to pitch in $350 from his own pocket to make up the Williams guarantee.

Irish Lose Barrett

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 24 (AP) —Halfback Billy Barrett has been lost to the Notre Dame football team for the rest of the season because of an ankle injury, it was announced today.

Barrett, Notre Dame's leading ground gainer, probably will be replaced by sophomore Jerry Marchand of Baton Rouge, La.

Browns Keep Taylor

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24 (AP) — Zack Taylor will manage the St. Louis Browns again next year. Bill Dewitt, president of the club, told a luncheon gathering yesterday that the signing of Taylor's 1951 contract would be a mere formality.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (INS)—That enchanting 11-year-old boy, Brandon De Wilde, whose performance with Ethel Waters in "Member of the Wedding" will never be forgotten, is coming to Hollywood.

I have been wondering why some producer didn't sign Brandon, who could well be another Jackie Cooper or Jackie Coogan.

Howard Hughes has given Eddie Grainger the "go" sign to bring Brandon to Hollywood for the second Grainger picture, "The Day They Gave Babies Away." Eddie has also signed Margaret O'Brien to co-star with Brandon.

Maybe you've read "The Day They Gave Babies Away" in Cosmopolitan magazine. It's by Dale Eunson and should make a honey of a movie.

Kirk Douglas turned press agent for his former wife, Diana Douglas, and telephoned to tell about her new movie job. He and Diana remain good friends, and he's always been proud of her.

He says Diana will have the lead in Louis De Rochemmont's picture, "Whistle at Eaton Falls," with Lloyd Bridges in the top male role. Robert Siodmak, a director of thrillers from way back, will direct it entirely on location in New Hampshire.

Since Diana and Kirk said adieu to their marriage she has been on many eastern television shows. She's a good actress and easy on the eyes.

Sir Laurence Olivier's and Vivien Leigh's agent, Cecil Tennant, has arrived in Hollywood, but it isn't on a mission to close any more film deals for his clients. They leave for England on a freighter November 12, and will be on the water three weeks.

In the case of Vivien and Larry, working in pictures is little better than "art for art's sake," for after both British and American taxes are deducted from their salaries, they have only a scant four per cent left for themselves.

I happen to know of one studio that offered them a flat $400,000 to co-star in a picture, but they said "no" to this, since their net salary from that big sum, after taxes, would be only $16,000.

Joan Bennett recalls that when she was a little girl she went backstage to visit her mother, Adrienne Morrison, who was appearing in "The Fool" on the New York stage.

"I also remember Sara Sothern," said Joan.

Sara Sothern is now Mrs. Francis Taylor, mother of our Elizabeth. Today Joan, the little girl who used to visit Sara's dressing room, is playing Elizabeth's mother in "Father's Little Dividend."

I was at the New York first night of "The Fool," the Channing Pollock play which starred James Kirkwood. Maybe my ideas of the theater in those days were less critical, but, oh, I did think it was a wonderful play.

Could it be John Agar's persuasive charm that is delaying Mona Knox' return to New York?

Bob Hope cables from Itazuke airbase, Kyushu, Japan, that he's met the Bing Crosby of Japan, who has a fine voice and yodels.

Dennis James, well known to television, is so photogenic in Jack Carson's picture, "Mr. Universe," that it will be surprising if he doesn't land in Hollywood.

Virginia O'Brien has a date with the stork in mid-December. Her husband, Kirk Alyn, has the star role in a new radio series. This marriage has worked out well.

Prince Alexis Hohenlohe, whose former wife is the new Mrs. Morton Downey, has a romance of his own. Guess who? No one but Honeychile Wilder!

Frankie Laine's secretary, Billie Reynolds, is marrying Frankie's business manager in January. Frankie will be an usher.

Bill Marshall cables from Paris that there are four more days of shooting on "New Orleans Adventure," so Errol Flynn, who has the male lead, must cut his honeymoon short.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Milk snakes are so called because, erroneously, they were once thought to milk cows.

New Electric Device Stimulates Heart

BOSTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — A new electric shock machine can start up a heart that quits beating, two Canadian surgeons have reported.

Its tiny currents also can keep a heart beating at a steady, normal rate, to help a tired heart. The currents are applied to a little lump on the heart which is the heart's own pacemaker of its beating. This lump or node is the source of natural electrical impulses controlling and coordinating your heart beat.

The metal-tipped electrode giving off the shocks can be inserted through a vein to reach the heart.

The hair of persons constantly handling crude aniline often turns a reddish brown.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (INS)—That enchanting 11-year-old boy, Brandon De Wilde, whose performance with Ethel Waters in "Member of the Wedding" will never be forgotten, is coming to Hollywood.

I have been wondering why some producer didn't sign Brandon, who could well be another Jackie Cooper or Jackie Coogan.

Howard Hughes has given Eddie Grainger the "go" sign to bring Brandon to Hollywood for the second Grainger picture, "The Day They Gave Babies Away." Eddie has also signed Margaret O'Brien to co-star with Brandon.

Maybe you've read "The Day They Gave Babies Away" in Cosmopolitan magazine. It's by Dale Eunson and should make a honey of a movie.

Firemen Hold Booster Event

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association conducted a "Boosters' Meeting" at the Vigilant Reel and Hose Company Building Sunday afternoon with 70 delegates present from Western Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia.

The Association is preparing for the next convention to be held in Chambersburg, Pa., marking the Golden Jubilee of the association. The 49th annual meeting was held in August at Greencastle, Pa.

The Keyser group has been inactive for some time and the meeting was held to revive local interest. A large number of Keyser firemen participated.

William F. Miller reviewed activities of the Keyser Firemen's group over the past ten years. Refreshments were served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Keyser Firemen to the visiting delegates and their wives.

The secretary of the association played a wire recording of a speech delivered at the Greencastle meeting by E. Wade Thomas, Keyser, of the West Virginia State Fire marshal's office.

NEW YORK (INS)—

HOLD YOUR HATS, boys. Here we go again—the most compassionate nation in history giving another incredible demonstration of how to forgive and forget.

In a short time we will be housing, feeding, nursing and restoring the economy of a vicious and pitiless enemy who shot our pleading wounded on their litters, shot American boys through the skull after tying their hands behind them, shot some of our captured men after tortures which not even a Gestapo mind could devise.

This was an enemy who stuck false rubber noses and Hitler-like mustaches on the faces of American prisoners and paraded them through the streets of Pyongyang, behind Russian tommy guns, for laughs. This was an enemy who machine-gunned prisoners and anyone else who might have borne witness against him. This was an enemy who aligned himself with a state and system that seeks sleeplessly to destroy you.

But now the time is coming for this country to swallow a normal desire for revenge and to make up its mind that he, the bloody-handed enemy, was generally a fun-loving, clean-living kid who just had an unfortunate environment and needs a rich friend.

• — • — •

Preposterous? Not at all. We hated the Japanese with a more raging anger than we had ever hated any enemy. To do them in we created the most violent weapon in history, the A-bomb, and dropped two of them with deep satisfaction. We burned Japan's cities, sank that nation's fleet and shipping, seared its troops with flame-guns.

But in five-short years of forgiveness and all-out aid we have made of the people we hated, and who hated us, our staunchest friend in the Pacific—one who asked repeatedly for what he called the honor of fighting at our side against the North Koreans.

On the other side of the world we fell on the sadistic Nazis and gave them a beating from which their nation might not have recuperated for a thousand years — without help. With the horror and stench of Buchenwald and Dachau still in our nostrils we went to work with unlimited money, patience and saint-like sympathy to help the very people who had countenanced and endorsed the fascism which developed the Nazi beast and the jungles of inhumanity in which he prowled.

We'll do the same in North Korea. The plants, homes and holdings which cost billions to destroy will be replaced at almost equal cost. If there are not enough of our own people to administer the affairs of that country, we will put to work, at the best pay of their lives, North Korean Red collaborators who worked willingly for the Russians and were a part of their conspiracy.

• — • — •

We did this in Germany with Nazis of various shades of intensity, and we did it in Japan, and we can be counted upon always to do it. For we, a world power which followed powers that turned the peoples of their defeated countries into slaves, have elaborated on exodus.

We take an eye for an eye, and have new glasses fitted for the eye we take. We take tooth for tooth, and pay for the dentist bill. We believe in "hand for hand" but the hand we take is taken into our own, with warmth and understanding. Works, too.

Lesser people are completely bewildered by us. It has become a cliche abroad that a nation would rather have been a defeated enemy of the United States than a loyal ally. For the truth of it one has only to look at the vigor and growing prosperity and freedom of Italy, Western Germany and Japan and contrast it with the deplorable condition of, say, Poland.

Sure, we'll hang a few of them. Half a dozen, say, for a war of this size. Big trial. United Nations. But it won't last as long as, say, the Nuremburg trial. There we had the Russians bolloxing the thing because there were some things they didn't want brought out — the Katyn Forest murders of about 11,000 Polish officers, for one thing, and the refusal of the Red army to help Gen. Bor's uprising against the Nazis in Warsaw, though the Red army was camped in the suburbs.

Trouble with the trial of the North Korean war criminals will be to find the right ones. Their leaders, being essentially political mercenaries, are as obscure as the officers of the Hessians. But once they're out of the way—or, even before—we'll be back in the forgiving business with both feet.

God must have a special place for us in his heart.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

1941 Mercury 2 door sedan. This is our surprise package. We can't begin to describe it as it should be. Youll just have to drop in and see it for yourself.

1940 DeSoto 4 door sedan. The mechanics are still working on this one and they won't stop until it's in perfect condition.

Secrets Of Charm

Fair skin, blonde hair: Wear a matching hat as a foil for your fairness; wine leather shoes and bag; costume-matching gray gloves; pink enameled earbobs and a very huge or very tiny bow in bright pink (almost shocking) at your neck.

Fair skin, dark hair: Spotlight your hair with a bright violet hat (almost loud); tuck a bunch of violets, real or fake, into your waistline; navy suede shoes and bag; very light gray gloves silver jewelry.

Dark skin, dark hair: Tangerine hat; ginger bag, gloves and shoes in polished leather; amber jewelry; and just for your private pleasure, a tangerine hanky tucked into your purse.

Titian: Make your costume gray from head to toe and let your hair do the rest. Experiment in the tone-on-tone effect. Let your hat and gloves be light gray and your purse and shoes match your suit or dress.

Silver hair: Match your hat to your costume to beautify your hair; black or matching gray shoes and purse; light gray gloves. If your eyes are brown, tuck a pinky mauve scarf at your neck. If they are blue, find the iciest blue chiffon. Add smoked pearls.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T COVER THEM ALL

"COVER an honor with an honor" is a sound enough maxim under certain conditions. But preceding that advice with the little word "always" is unsound. There are plenty of cases in which the covering of an honor will promote a trick for the opposition, whereas failure to do so may force a difficult guess on the other side, or perhaps compel the loss of a trick. The best words to combine with that maxim are "whenever doing so promises to promote a trick for your own side, but not when it promises to do so for your opponents."

	♠ J 2 ♥ K J ♦ A Q 10 8 6 5 ♣ Q 9 2
♠ Q 10 9 8 7 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ A 8	N W E S	♠ A 4 3 ♥ Q 9 7 ♦ 7 ♣ K J 10 6 5 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	2 ♣	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♦	3 ♠	Pass	Pass
4 ♥

North took considerable liberties when he made that last bid, with only two-card support for the non-rebid hearts. He based it largely on his knowledge of the opponents, who were not rated as too alert on the defense, and hoped to steal a game with the call. Both his own partner and East justified his confidence.

West led the spade 10 to the A and East returned the 4, which South took with the K after studying his problem. With that attenuated trump suit, he had an entry puzzle, considerably complicated by the fact that, as soon as the defenders got the lead again, they could peel off two tricks in clubs to set him.

South's job was to clear out the defenders' trumps, win a diamond finesse and then use diamonds to discard his other losers, which would give him extra tricks if he could work it and set him if he couldn't. His enigma was the trump suit. If West had a doubleton Q, he could eliminate it by leading to the J, next playing the K, but then couldn't reach his hand for the diamond finesse without losing club tricks. But, if East had the heart Q plus only the 9, he could win by taking the K first. Or, if East had the twice-guarded Q and would cover the J, he was all right.

So the K won the first trump and the J was led. East "covered an honor with an honor" and the A won. The 10 then settled the trumps and the diamond finesse worked, so that South made two extra tricks. Notice what would have happened to South if East had seen that there was no advantage in covering the heart J.

Market Shakes Off Decline And Closes On Firm Footing

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — The stock market pulled out of a morning decline and closed on a firm footing today.

Fast demand for a couple of automobile shares and one utility issue had a stimulating effect on the market generally.

Chrysler set a hot pace with a rise of $1.75 to $81.12 while General Motors tagged along with a gain of 87 cents at $52.50.

Consolidated Edison stood out with an advance of $1.37 to $30.37 a share, an unusually wide swing for this blue chip stock.

Sales contracted to 1,790,000 shares from 1,850,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks inched up 10 cents to $84.80, only 10 cents under the 20-year high established last week.

A total of 1,170 individual issues changed hands, of which 434 advanced and 425 declined.

New highs for 1950 or longer were established during the day by around 55 stocks while four touched their lows for the year. Final prices were at or near the best levels of the day in most cases.

Stocks in demand included Graham-Paige, Long Island Lighting, Robert Gair, Bridgeport Brass, Westinghouse Electric, Budd Co., U. S. Steel, Hayes Mfg., Symington-Gould, Studebaker, American Telephone, Commonwealth Edison, Kennecott Copper and General Electric.

Losers included Republic Steel, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, Philip Morris, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, and U. S. Gypsum.

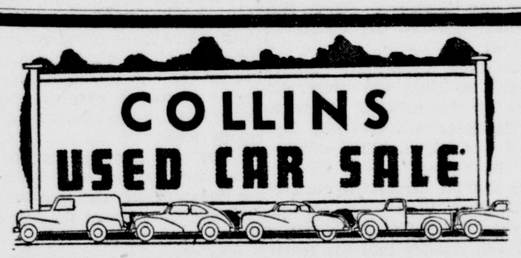
COLLINS USED CAR SALE



Every one of these fine cars and trucks has been checked and double checked and the price drastically reduced. We're determined to move them because we need the space. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime.

1948 Studebaker Land Cruiser. Here is a beauty. Simply loaded with extra equipment. Only had one owner and has been driven just a few careful miles.

1947 Studebaker Land Cruiser. You'll wonder how we can let this one go at the price we are asking. Grab it quick before we start wondering too.

1946 Dodge Custom 4 door sedan. Excellent condition. That's a pretty general term but it certainly applies in this case because it's excellent throughout.

1941 Mercury 2 door sedan. This is our surprise package. We can't begin to describe it as it should be. Youll just have to drop in and see it for yourself.

1940 DeSoto 4 door sedan. The mechanics are still working on this one and they won't stop until it's in perfect condition.

1939 Studebaker President 4 door. This is one of the finest used cars we've had in the garage for a long time.

Look no further — here's your truck

1949 Studebaker half-ton stake body. Hardly been used at all. Exceptionally low mileage, way above average condition.

1948 International ¾ ton. Had such good care it's hard to tell from a new one. Rugged, economical, easy to operate.

Word to the wise . . . get here early!

Secrets Of Charm

Fair skin, blonde hair: Wear a matching hat as a foil for your fairness; wine leather shoes and bag; costume-matching gray gloves; pink enameled earbobs and a very huge or very tiny bow in bright pink (almost shocking) at your neck.

Fair skin, dark hair: Spotlight your hair with a bright violet hat (almost loud); tuck a bunch of violets, real or fake, into your waistline; navy suede shoes and bag; very light gray gloves· silver jewelry.

Dark skin, dark hair: Tangerine hat; ginger bag, gloves and shoes in polished leather; amber jewelry; and just for your private pleasure, a tangerine hanky tucked into your purse.

Titian: Make your costume gray from head to toe and let your hair do the rest. Experiment in the tone-on-tone effect. Let your hat and gloves be light gray and your purse and shoes match your suit or dress.

Silver hair: Match your hat to your costume to beautify your hair; black or matching gray shoes and purse; light gray gloves. If your eyes are brown, tuck a pinky mauve scarf at your neck. If they are blue, find the iciest blue chiffon. Add smoked pearls.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T COVER THEM ALL

"COVER an honor with an honor" is a sound enough maxim under certain conditions. But preceding that advice with the little word "always" is unsound. There are plenty of cases in which the covering of an honor will promote a trick for the opposition, whereas failure to do so may force a difficult guess on the other side, or perhaps compel the loss of a trick. The best words to combine with that maxim are "whenever doing so promises to promote a trick for your own side, but not when it promises to do so for your opponents."

	♠ J 2 ♥ K J ♦ A Q 10 8 6 5 ♣ Q 9 2
♠ Q 10 9 8 7 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ A 8	N W E S	♠ A 4 3 ♥ Q 9 7 ♦ 7 ♣ K J 10 6 5 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	2 ♣	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♦	3 ♠	Pass	Pass
4 ♥

North took considerable liberties when he made that last bid, with only two-card support for the non-rebid hearts. He based it largely on his knowledge of the opponents, who were not rated as too alert on the defense, and hoped to steal a game with the call. Both his own partner and East justified his confidence.

West led the spade 10 to the A and East returned the 4, which South took with the K after studying his problem. With that attenuated trump suit, he had an entry puzzle, considerably complicated by the fact that, as soon as the defenders got the lead again, they could peel off two tricks in clubs to set him.

South's job was to clear out the defenders' trumps, win a diamond finesse and then use diamonds to discard his other losers, which would give him extra tricks if he could work it and set him if he couldn't. His enigma was the trump suit. If West had a doubleton Q, he could eliminate it by leading to the J, next playing the K, but then couldn't reach his hand for the diamond finesse without losing club tricks. But, if East had the heart Q plus only the 9, he could win by taking the K first. Or, if East had the twice-guarded Q and would cover the J, he was all right.

So the K won the first trump and the J was led. East "covered an honor with an honor" and the A won. The 10 then settled the trumps and the diamond finesse worked, so that South made two extra tricks. Notice what would have happened to South if East had seen that there was no advantage in covering the heart J.

Market Shakes Off Decline And Closes On Firm Footing

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — The stock market pulled out of a morning decline and closed on a firm footing today.

Fast demand for a couple of automobile shares and one utility issue had a stimulating effect on the market generally.

Chrysler set a hot pace with a rise of $1.75 to $81.12 while General Motors tagged along with a gain of 87 cents at $52.50.

Consolidated Edison stood out with an advance of $1.37 to $30.37 a share, an unusually wide swing for this blue chip stock.

Sales contracted to 1,790,000 shares from 1,850,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks inched up 10 cents to $84.80, only 10 cents under the 20-year high established last week.

A total of 1,170 individual issues changed hands, of which 434 advanced and 425 declined.

New highs for 1950 or longer were established during the day by around 55 stocks while four touched their lows for the year. Final prices were at or near the best levels of the day in most cases.

Stocks in demand included Graham-Paige, Iong Island Lighting, Robert Gair, Bridgeport Brass, Westinghouse Electric, Budd Co., U. S. Steel, Hayes Mfg., Symington-Gould, Studebaker, American Telephone, Commonwealth Edison, Kennecott Copper and General Electric.

Losers included Republic Steel, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, Philip Morris, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, and U. S. Gypsum.

Edward R. Allan Named To High Celanese Post

Former Local Man Wins Vice Presidency

Edward R. Allan, former superintendent of personnel at the Amcelle plant here, has been elected vice president in charge of labor relations for the Celanese Corporation of America.

This action was taken yesterday in New York by the Celanese board of directors, according to Vincent Lyons, director of press relations.

Since September 1, 1949, Allan has been serving the firm as director of labor relations, with headquarters in New York.

He served as superintendent of personnel at the Amcelle plant from 1937 until 1949.

Born in North Tonawanda, N. Y., in 1892, he was graduated from the Engineering College of the University of Michigan in 1916 with a B. S. degree in mechanical engineering.

He served eight years in the production department of Continental Motors Corporation and rose to assistant production manager of the firm's Muskegon Division.

Allan joined P. H. Keays in 1924 as a consultant industrial engineer and became treasurer and chief engineer when the organization consolidated with the Weaver Company in 1928.

He resigned from the Keays-Weaver Company in 1933 and from that date until his employment with Celanese operated as an industrial consultant to many nationally known manufacturing concerns.

During his service at the Amcelle plant Allan was administrator for the plant's Veterans Bureau and won recognition awards from the American Legion, the Military Order of the Purple Heart, and the Disabled American Veterans.

Also elected yesterday by the Celanese board of directors were H. E. Martin as vice president in charge of the cellulose acetate division; and Emery N. Cleaves, as vice president in charge of public relations.

Coroner's Jury Orders Driver Held In Death

Dead Woman Had Local Relative

Earl C. Diehl 25-year old truck driver from Broad Top, in Huntingdon County, Pa., has been ordered held for Bedford County, Pa., grand jury action following a coroner's jury inquest yesterday, according to Bedford County Sheriff Jacob Dunkel.

The grand jury will next convene Monday, December 4.

Diehl was charged with manslaughter after his truck and an automobile collided near Bedford, resulting in the death of one woman passenger in the automobile and injury to two others September 30.

Police arrested Diehl some 10 miles from the scene of the accident. Killed instantly when Diehl's truck struck the automobile was Mrs. Ruth Weisel, Washington, D. C., formerly of Everett, Pa. She was a cousin of Mrs. Joseph F. Stitcher, 532 North Mechanic Street, Cumberland.

Two women injured in the mishap, Mrs. Grace E. Hixon, 56, the driver, and Mrs. Lela Williams, 51, both of Everett, still are recuperating in Timmons Hospital, Bedford.

Snyder Wants Election Probe In W. Virginia

Source Of Money Would Be Sought

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24—A federal investigation of November elections in West Virginia, regardless of the outcome, will be sought by Melvin C. Snyder, Republican candidate for Congress in the Second District, who said here last night that "thousands upon thousands of dollars are being spe... in my district alone, and I intend to find out how much of it is money that rightfully belongs to the people of West Virginia and to no political machine."

An experienced prosecuting attorney and a former Congressional investigator of crime in the nation, Snyder made his intentions known as he visited here on his fifth campaign trip around the 15-county district, the largest in West Virginia. He stated that he has been collecting evidence of expenditures "by the opposition machine that is frantic with fear" that it is going to lose its power.

"There is no doubt this political slush fund has been built up by kickbacks on equipment and other state purchases, and there is no doubt that all state employes, down to the lowest-paid charwomen in Charles Town, have had to contribute two per cent of their wages to these political bosses," Snyder added.

Citing an example of what he called "the machine's own blackout of words," Snyder said the opposition had already contracted for more than $2,000 worth of radio time in the Second District alone, compared to what he called his own "normal expenditure" of $300 for the same purpose. He estimated the radio campaign in the entire state would cost $20,000.

"Every voter in this district can look around him and see what I mean by a blackout of words. Did anybody ever see, in an off-year campaign for a federal office, such a flood of propaganda on billboards, posters, car stickers, bumper posters, personal cards, airborne advertisements, and every conceivable means by which to spend money for political purposes? I know what it costs to run for Congress in this district, and I know that the average candidate could not personally afford a fraction of what has been spent in the political interest of my opponent. A federal investigation will be asked, and I will be on hand, regardless of the outcome of this election, to see that all the evidence gets to the investigators."

Snyder, who represented the Second District in the 80th Congress, during 1947 and 1948, was defeated two years ago for re-election by Harley O. Staggers, Keyser Democrat. Now Snyder seeks to unseat Staggers.

West Side Group To Launch Drive For Members

Door-To-Door Canvass Planned In Clean-Up

Organization work got underway last night for a house to house canvass of the West Side to enroll members in the West Side Civic Improvement Association, according to Fred Y. Borden, president.

The plan calls for contacting every family in the entire area and Ridgeley, W. Va., in an effort to arouse wide interest in making the city a cleaner, more attractive, more healthful place in which to live, Borden explained.

Joseph J. Reinhart, Jr., was named general chairman of the general membership campaign, with Mrs. A. N. Golladay, sub-chairman.

The area was divided into six sections with a chairman and sub-chairman named for each, with other committee members to be enlisted. J. Henry Holzshu, a member of the association's executive committee prepared maps of each zone showing the section of West Side embraced by each sub-committee.

The Zones follow:

No. 1, Below Baltimore and Ohio Railroad south of Greene Street, Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, chairman.

No. 2, Rose Hill area, west of railroad and south of Greene Street, Mrs. Joseph Reinhart, chairman, and Mrs. John Carscaden, sub-chairman.

No. 3, Campobello, Mrs. Ross Decker, chairman.

No. 4, Washington, Fayette and Greene Streets, Dr. A. N. Golladay, chairman, and Mrs. Helen Davis, sub-chairman.

No. 5, The Dingle-Braddock Road section, Harry I. Alexander, chairman, and Mrs. Alexander, sub-chairman.

No. 6, Ridgeley, W. Va., J. H. Simmons, chairman, and Robert Edenhart, sub-chairman.

Borden explained that the association makes no charge for membership and no dues are assessed, however, members will be asked to contribute toward a fund to be used for legal and technical assistance in combatting air pollution and dirt, and promoting other worthwhile improvements.

A meeting of all the chairmen and sub-chairmen will be called early next month to get the actual canvass underway, he stated.

More State Aid Is Assured For College, Hospital

Steering Committee Told Of Proposals

Additional state aid for Frostburg State Teachers College and Miners Hospital has been assured in 1951 and 1952, the Steering Committee for Economic Development was told last night by David Kauffman, chairman.

Kauffman said Gov. William Preston Lane had informed him after visiting both institutions that funds are to be included in the 1951 bond issue for a new wing to the hospital, a new kitchen, dining hall, dormitory and other buildings at the State Teachers College. The Steering Committee has urged additional state assistance to both these institutions and listed these projects among several proposals of methods by which the state could aid the economy of the area.

Kauffman also reported that legislation is to be introduced at the next session of the General Assembly requiring state institutions to buy Maryland coal.

Reports also were made to the Steering Committee last night on progress of the Lonaconing Recreation Area, the C and O Canal Parkway legislation, dispersal of government buildings and defense plants, progress of the Economic Survey by a Federal team here, and progress on the Savage River Dam and local Flood Control project.

A motion was passed to invite Richardson Wood, the industrial advisor hired by the Steering Committee, to come here Friday night to meet with the Industrial Promotion Company.

Earl Chaney made a report on progress of the campaign to raise funds for the Berkowitz plant in Frostburg, and Francis Kenney, chairman of the Industrial Promotion Committee, reported work underway on several leads for new industries here.

Lecturer Tells Of Healing Power

The healing power of God is again being taught and proved as it was in Bible times, declared Earl E. Simms, C. S., in a public lecture last night at First Church of Christ, Scientist, on "Christian Science: Divine Love in Action."

One woman who seemed to be passing on with heart trouble called on a Christian Science practicioner, Simms said. The practioner stayed with her all night and she was healed, he added.

Simms is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass. Simms, who comes from Austin, Tex., wove his lecture around the 23rd Psalm as interpreted by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

"The fear that gives us trouble is defined as anxiety, dread, fright, panic, worry and the like," the speaker said. "Such fear is the direct opposite of adoration, reverence and worship of the one God. Being opposites, they cannot both be true. Fear, then, in this negative sense, obviously is lack of spiritual understanding of God as divine Love."

"Divine Love gives you His rod of power which defeats the belief in and fear of death. Thus Love comforts you here and now and all the way."

False Fire Alarm, Pranksters Blamed

Firemen from Central station were out of their house for seven minutes last night and they blamed their trip on pre-Halloween pranksters.

The pranksters pulled Box 24 at Centre and Pear Streets at 8:51 last night. Firemen hurried over the wet streets to the location of the box, but found no fire.

Teachers Called, Board Concerned

Members of the Allegany County Board of Education are viewing with some concern the probability that a number of county teachers may be called into active service in the armed forces, according to School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp.

The superintendent said that yesterday afternoon's board meeting was principally a routine affair. However, the members lamented the fact that two county teachers already have been called into service. These were men who were in reserve units, Kopp added.

"Disturbing, but not alarming." That's the way the superintendent summarized the condition.

Legion Plans Ober Drive

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, last night made plans for a special drive in their membership campaign, named chairmen for the election day Ober Bill campaign, and planned open house for Halloween and Armistice Day.

Howard Spiker, past commander, and George Ziegler, will be co-chairman of the campaign November 7, in which veterans will distribute sample ballots urging voters to support the Ober Bill.

A special meeting of all interested members has been called for Friday night to launch a concerted drive for members. Two teams will be formed to make a special effort to enroll as many members as possible by November 15. That is the date by which the state department commander has pledged the national commander that Maryland posts will have 12,000 veterans enrolled for 1951.

Following the parade on Halloween and also on Armistice Day, the post home will be open for a dance with music by Bernard Deal's Starlighters.

New Trial Asked In Keyser Case

A Keyser, W. Va., man was found guilty yesterday on a second count of drunken driving, and his attorneys have asked for a new trial.

James William Mason, Keyser, was arrested by State Police after an accident on Knobley Mountain Road in May. He testified yesterday he had two beers previous to the mishap, but claimed that he "blacked out" prior to the collision.

Mason also testified that during combat service in France during World War II he suffered from shock. He told of extensive hospitalization in Army and Veterans' Administration hospitals.

He claimed that his affliction resulted in high blood pressure and often caused him to "black out."

His attorneys, H. G. Shores and H. R. Athey, produced his Army discharge papers to show that he was classified as having 100 per cent disability. A letter from a service hospital also stated that Mason's disability rating was 100 per cent.

In another case, Monday, Charles Davis and Edward Elliott pleaded guilty to stealing lead from a construction company working on the new science hall at Potomac State School last spring and were given suspended sentences of from one to ten years by Judge E. A. See.

The pair was paroled for three years with the stipulation that they make restitution of $192.50 to the C. W. Davis and Sons, Inc., the contractors, and maintain good citizenship records.

Jury Will Get $45,000 Damage Case Today

Counsel To Argue Car-Truck Mishap

Counsel will argue a $45,000 damage case before a petit jury in Circuit Court here today, after testimony was presented yesterday before Associate Judge George Henderson.

The case involves a car-truck crash nine miles west of Frederick on October 17, 1949, in which William F. Balthasar, a Buffalo, N. Y., liquor dealer and his wife, Mrs. Wilma F. Balthasar, were riding in a sedan that was struck by a truck owned by John Philip Zimmerman, a beer distributor of Cumberland.

Balthasar last December 31 entered a suit against Zimmerman for $10,000 for damages to his car and expenses incurred as a result of injuries to his wife. Mrs. Balthasar entered suit against Zimmerman for $30,000 personal injury damages.

In a counter-suit, Zimmerman filed a claim of $5,000 for damages to and loss of use of his truck.

Attorneys for Balthasar are William R. Carscaden and W. Earle Cobey, this city, and Charles C. Grice, Hagerstown, while Zimmerman is represented by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, this city, and Edward D. Storm of Frederick.

Both sides introduced pictures yesterday to show the cause and nature of the mishap. Witnesses said Balthasar was traveling west toward this city and had stopped. Then he turned off to enter a service station across the road, it was testified. Zimmerman's truck, headed toward Frederick, came over a hill and crashed into the sedan, the jury was told. Witnesses included State Trooper William Mutchner of Frederick.

The case took up the entire day in court and late yesterday afternoon, court was adjourned until this morning at 9:15 o'clock and the jury was excused until that time.

Weather

If you are one who does not like erratic changes in temperature, you lived your ideal day yesterday, for temperatures varied only one degree. In Constitution Park the temperature went from a low of 51 degrees to a high of 52 degrees. Downtown, the variation was similar, from a low of 56 degrees to a high of 57 degrees. And, the thermometers were working satisfactorily. The weatherman says that today is to have some early morning drizzle and is to be slightly warmer this afternoon.

Area Recreation Survey To Start, Committee Told

State To Take Lead In Tourist Program

Preliminary plans have been completed for an extensive survey of Allegany and Garrett counties for recreational development, the Steering Committee for Economic Development was informed last night at a meeting in City Hall.

David Kauffman, chairman, read a communication he had just received from the Maryland State Planning Commission, stating that work on the actual survey will start shortly, with the view of the state government concentrating on the development of Western Maryland as a recreational area.

The Steering Committee has been urging the state to consider such a project, Kauffman said, and State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Alvin Pasarew, director of the State Planning Commission and Gov. William Preston Lane have expressed interest in the project.

It has been variously suggested that as much as $2,000,000 might be spent in an effort to make this area a mecca for tourists and to develop a year-round playground and vacation area in these two western-most counties as a means of economic development.

Pasarew, several weeks ago in a preliminary discussion with the Steering Committee here, said, "It appears you fellows are not overlooking the gold nuggets in your own back yard, while you are attempting to bring new industry and business into the area." He was particularly impressed, he told the group, with both the long-range and immediate possibilities of the area, and since then has been conferring with officials of the State Roads Commission and Department of State Forests and Parks.

Pasarew said Gov. Lane has given the program the "green light" and a detailed report and recommendation for a project and program will result from the survey.

McAvoy Faces Second Charge

Acquitted by a jury on a charge of being a partner in the theft of 100 pounds of wool, William C. McAvoy, 32, of Keyser, W. Va., went on trial in a second indictment of theft yesterday afternoon and the case is to be continued today.

Carl Lee Baer, 24, Westernport, and Alvin H. Mayhew, 20, who entered pleas of guilty as partners in the thefts, were sentenced from one to ten years each in the state penitentiary, earlier this term of court.

Yesterday, Don C. Hott, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, said unless McAvoy is found guilty on at least one of the four indictments in which the trio are named, he will ask the court to wipe out the sentences of the two men who entered guilty pleas.

Baer and Mayhew testified that they had been employed by McAvoy as timber cutters and that the three of them had planned the four thefts in McAvoy's home.

The three men were indicted in the theft of three sheep from Clyde Bonar, four yearling cattle from Albert Schwinabart, a furnace from a house owned by John Kuykendall and 717 pounds of wool from William Bane, Creed Mott and Isaac Whipp.

H. G. Shores and H. R. Athey, both of Keyser, are attorneys for McAvoy.

Butler Attacks Tydings' Record

BEL AIR, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—John Marshall Butler tonight called Sen. Tydings (D-Md) "the hatchet man for the Truman administration."

Butler is the Republican candidate opposing the veteran Democrat in quest of his fifth straight term.

At a rally, Butler said Tydings is "the man that his party called on to force the confirmation of Ed Pauley, Mon Wallgren and others."

(Pauley was unsuccessfully nominated in 1946 as undersecretary of state and later was appointed special ambassador for President Truman. Wallgren recently was named to the Federal Power Commission.)

"Now when the going gets tough," Butler continued, "Senator Tydings is trying to run out on his own party which has elected him to four consecutive terms in the U. S. Senate as he has run out on a lot of his friends in years past.

"After twenty-four years in the Senate, Senator Tydings began to think that he was above reproach from the public. In the middle of this campaign he suddenly realized that he must have the support of the public which he has heretofore disdained by his actions.

"Senator Tydings no longer looks us in the eye and says that black is white. He wishes now that he had not been selected for the job of confusing the American people about communism."

Butler suggested that Tydings "get up to date and talk about the issues today."

The issues he said are (1) Was the United States "ready for this war?" (2) "Are there Communists in our government?" and (3) "What commitments has (Secretary of State) Dean Acheson made that might bring on another war?"

Man Injured In Blast At Home

Fred Sullivan, 28, of 311 Valley Street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital late last night after suffering second degree burns of the hands, arms and face when a half-gallon jar of inflammable liquid exploded at his home. He was reported in fair condition.

Snyder Wants Election Probe In W. Virginia

Source Of Money Would Be Sought

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24—A federal investigation of November elections in West Virginia, regardless of the outcome, will be sought by Melvin C. Snyder, Republican candidate for Congress in the Second District, who said here last night that "thousands upon thousands of dollars are being spe.. in my district alone, and I intend to find out how much of it is money that rightfully belongs to the people of West Virginia and to no political machine."

An experienced prosecuting attorney and a former Congressional investigator of crime in the nation, Snyder made his intentions known as he visited here on his fifth campaign trip around the 15-county district, the largest in West Virginia. He stated that he has been collecting evidence of expenditures "by the opposition machine that is frantic with fear" that it is going to lose its power.

"There is no doubt this political slush fund has been built up by kickbacks on equipment and other state purchases, and there is no doubt that all state employes, down to the lowest-paid charwomen in Charles Town, have had to contribute two per cent of their wages to these political bosses," Snyder added.

Citing an example of what he called "the machine's own blackout of words," Snyder said the opposition had already contracted for more than $2,000 worth of radio time in the Second District alone, compared to what he called his own "normal expenditure" of $300 for the same purpose. He estimated the radio campaign in the entire state would cost $20,000.

"Every voter in this district can look around him and see what I mean by a blackout of words. Did anybody ever see, in an off-year campaign for a federal office, such a flood of propaganda on billboards, posters, car stickers, bumper posters, personal cards, airborne advertisements, and every conceivable means by which to spend money for political purposes? I know what it costs to run for Congress in this district, and I know that the average candidate could not personally afford a fraction of what has been spent in the political interest of my opponent. A federal investigation will be asked, and I will be on hand, regardless of the outcome of this election, to see that all the evidence gets to the investigators."

Snyder, who represented the Second District in the 80th Congress, during 1947 and 1948, was defeated two years ago for re-election by Harley O. Staggers, Keyser Democrat. Now Snyder seeks to unseat Staggers.

West Side Group To Launch Drive For Members

Door-To-Door Canvass Planned In Clean-Up

Organization work got underway last night for a house to house canvass of the West Side to enroll members in the West Side Civic Improvement Association, according to Fred Y. Borden, president.

The plan calls for contacting every family in the entire area and Ridgeley, W. Va., in an effort to arouse wide interest in making the city a cleaner, more attractive, more healthful place in which to live, Borden explained.

Joseph J. Reinhart, Jr., was named general chairman of the general membership campaign, with Mrs. A. N. Golladay, sub-chairman.

The area was divided into six sections with a chairman and subchairman named for each, with other committee members to be enlisted. J. Henry Holzshu, a member of the association's executive committee prepared maps of each zone showing the section of West Side embraced by each sub-committee.

The Zones follow:

No. 1, Below Baltimore and Ohio Railroad south of Greene Street, Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, chairman.

No. 2, Rose Hill area, west of railroad and south of Greene Street, Mrs. Joseph Reinhart, chairman, and Mrs. John Carscaden, subchairman.

No. 3, Campobello, Mrs. Ross Decker, chairman.

No. 4, Washington, Fayette and Greene Streets, Dr. A. N. Golladay, chairman, and Mrs. Helen Davis, sub-chairman.

No. 5, The Dingle-Braddock Road section, Harry I. Alexander, chairman, and Mrs. Alexander, subchairman.

No. 6, Ridgeley, W. Va., J. H. Simmons, chairman, and Robert Edenhart, sub-chairman.

Borden explained that the association makes no charge for membership and no dues are assessed, however, members will be asked to contribute toward a fund to be used for legal and technical assistance in combatting air pollution and dirt, and promoting other worthwhile improvements.

A meeting of all the chairmen and sub-chairmen will be called early next month to get the actual canvass underway, he stated.

More State Aid Is Assured For College, Hospital

Steering Committee Told Of Proposals

Additional state aid for Frostburg State Teachers College and Miners Hospital has been assured in 1951 and 1952, the Steering Committee for Economic Development was told last night by David Kauffman, chairman.

Kauffman said Gov. William Preston Lane had informed him after visiting both institutions that funds are to be included in the 1951 bond issue for a new wing to the hospital, a new kitchen, dining hall, dormitory and other buildings at the State Teachers College. The Steering Committee has urged additional state assistance to both these institutions and listed these projects among several proposals of methods by which the state could aid the economy of the area.

Kauffman also reported that legislation is to be introduced at the next session of the General Assembly requiring state institutions to buy Maryland coal.

Reports also were made to the Steering Committee last night on progress of the Lonaconing Recreation Area, the C and O Canal Parkway legislation, dispersal of government buildings and defense plants, progress of the Economic Survey by a Federal team here, and progress on the Savage River Dam and local Flood Control project.

A motion was passed to invite Richardson Wood, the industrial advisor hired by the Steering Committee, to come here Friday night to meet with the Industrial Promotion Company.

Earl Chaney made a report on progress of the campaign to raise funds for the Berkowitz plant in Frostburg, and Francis Kenney, chairman of the Industrial Promotion Committee, reported work underway on several leads for new industries here.

Lecturer Tells Of Healing Power

The healing power of God is again being taught and proved as it was in Bible times, declared Earl E. Simms, C. S., in a public lecture last night at First Church of Christ, Scientist, on "Christian Science: Divine Love in Action."

One woman who seemed to be passing on with heart trouble called on a Christian Science practicioner, Simms said. The practioner stayed with her all night and she was healed, he added.

Simms is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass. Simms, who comes from Austin, Tex., wove his lecture around the 23rd Psalm as interpreted by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

"The fear that gives us trouble is defined as anxiety, dread, fright, panic, worry and the like," the speaker said. "Such fear is the direct opposite of adoration, reverence and worship of the one God. Being opposites, they cannot both be true. Fear, then, in this negative sense, obviously is lack of spiritual understanding of God as divine Love."

"Divine Love gives you His rod of power which defeats the belief in and fear of death. Thus Love comforts you here and now and all the way."

The superintendent said that yesterday afternoon's board meeting was principally a routine affair. However, the members lamented the fact that two county teachers already have been called into service. These were men who were in reserve units, Kopp added.

"Disturbing, but not alarming." That's the way the superintendent summarized the condition.

Howard Spiker, past commander, and George Ziegler, will be co-chairman of the campaign November 7, in which veterans will distribute sample ballots urging voters to support the Ober Bill.

A special meeting of all interested members has been called for Friday night to launch a concerted drive for members. That is the date by which the state department commander has pledged the national commander that Maryland posts will have 12,000 veterans enrolled for 1951.

New Trial Asked In Keyser Case

A Keyser, W. Va., man was found guilty yesterday on a second count of drunken driving, and his attorneys have asked for a new trial.

James William Mason, Keyser, was arrested by State Police after an accident on Knobley Mountain Road in May. He testified yesterday he had two beers previous to the mishap, but claimed that he "blacked out" prior to the collision.

Mason also testified that during combat service in France during World War II he suffered from shock. He told of extensive hospitalization in Army and Veterans' Administration hospitals.

He claimed that his affliction resulted in high blood pressure and often caused him to "black out."

His attorneys, H. G. Shores and H. R. Athey, produced his Army discharge papers to show that he was classified as having 100 per cent disability. A letter from a service hospital also stated that Mason's disability rating was 100 per cent.

In another case, Monday, Charles Davis and Edward Elliott pleaded guilty to stealing lead from a construction company working on the new science hall at Potomac State School last spring and were given suspended sentences of from one to ten years by Judge E. A. See.

The pair was paroled for three years with the stipulation that they make restitution of $192.50 to the C. W. Davis and Sons, Inc., the contractors, and maintain good citizenship records.

Jury Will Get $45,000 Damage Case Today

Counsel To Argue Car-Truck Mishap

Counsel will argue a $45,000 damage case before a petit jury in Circuit Court here today, after testimony was presented yesterday before Associate Judge George Henderson.

The case involves a car-truck crash nine miles west of Frederick on October 17, 1949, in which William F. Balthasar, a Buffalo, N. Y., liquor dealer and his wife, Mrs. Wilma F. Balthasar, were riding in a sedan that was struck by a truck owned by John Philip Zimmerman, a beer distributor of Cumberland.

Balthasar last December 31 entered a suit against Zimmerman for $10,000 for damages to his car and expenses incurred as a result of injuries to his wife. Mrs. Balthasar entered suit against Zimmerman for $30,000 personal injury damages.

In a counter-suit, Zimmerman filed a claim of $5,000 for damages to and loss of use of his truck.

Attorneys for Balthasar are William R. Carscaden and W. Earle Cobey, this city, and Charles C. Grice, Hagerstown, while Zimmerman is represented by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, this city, and Edward D. Storm of Frederick.

Both sides introduced pictures yesterday to show the cause and nature of the mishap. Witnesses said Balthasar was traveling west toward this city and had stopped. Then he turned off to enter a service station across the road, it was testified. Zimmerman's truck, headed toward Frederick, came over a hill and crashed into the sedan, the jury was told. Witnesses included State Trooper William Mutchner of Frederick.

The case took up the entire day in court and late yesterday afternoon, court was adjourned until this morning at 9:15 o'clock and the jury was excused until that time.

McAvoy Faces Second Charge

Acquitted by a jury on a charge of being a partner in the theft of 100 pounds of wool, William C. McAvoy, 32, of Keyser, W. Va., went on trial in a second indictment of theft yesterday afternoon and the case is to be continued today.

Carl Lee Baer, 24, Westernport, and Alvin H. Mayhew, 20, who entered pleas of guilty as partners in the thefts, were sentenced from one to ten years each in the state penitentiary, earlier this term of court.

Yesterday, Don C. Hott, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, said unless McAvoy is found guilty on at least one of the four indictments in which the trio are named, he will ask the court to wipe out the sentences of the two men who entered guilty pleas.

Baer and Mayhew testified that they had been employed by McAvoy as timber cutters and that the three of them had planned the four thefts in McAvoy's home.

The three men were indicted in the theft of three sheep from Clyde Bonar, four yearling cattle from Albert Schwinabart, a furnace from a house owned by John Kuykendall and 717 pounds of wool from William Bane, Creed Mott and Isaac Whipp.

H. G. Shores and H. R. Athey, both of Keyser, are attorneys for McAvoy.

Area Recreation Survey To Start, Committee Told

State To Take Lead In Tourist Program

Preliminary plans have been completed for an extensive survey of Allegany and Garrett counties for recreational development, the Steering Committee for Economic Development was informed last night at a meeting in City Hall.

David Kauffman, chairman, read a communication he had just received from the Maryland State Planning Commission, stating that work on the actual survey will start shortly, with the view of the state government concentrating on the development of Western Maryland as a recreational area.

The Steering Committee has been urging the state to consider such a project, Kauffman said, and State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Alvin Pasarew, director of the State Planning Commission and Gov. William Preston Lane have expressed interest in the project.

It has been variously suggested that as much as $2,000,000 might be spent in an effort to make this area a mecca for tourists and to develop a year-round playground and vacation area in these two western-most counties as a means of economic development.

Pasarew, several weeks ago in a preliminary discussion with the Steering Committee here, said, "It appears you fellows are not overlooking the gold nuggets in your own back yard, while you are attempting to bring new industry and business into the area." He was particularly impressed, he told the group, with both the long-range and immediate possibilities of the area, and since then has been conferring with officials of the State Roads Commission and Department of State Forests and Parks.

Pasarew said Gov. Lane has given the program the "green light" and a detailed report and recommendation for a project and program will result from the survey.

Butler Attacks Tydings' Record

BEL AIR, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—John Marshall Butler tonight called Sen. Tydings (D-Md) "the hatchet man for the Truman administration."

Butler is the Republican candidate opposing the veteran Democrat in quest of his fifth straight term.

At a rally, Butler said Tydings is "the man that his party called on to force the confirmation of Ed Pauley, Mon Wallgren and others."

(Pauley was unsuccessfully nominated in 1946 as undersecretary of state and later was appointed special ambassador for President Truman. Wallgren recently was named to the Federal Power Commission.)

"Now when the going gets tough," Butler continued, "Senator Tydings is trying to run out on his own party which has elected him to four consecutive terms in the U. S. Senate as he has run out on a lot of his friends in years past.

"After twenty-four years in the Senate, Senator Tydings began to think that he was above reproach from the public. In the middle of this campaign he suddenly realized that he must have the support of the public which he has heretofore disdained by his actions.

"Senator Tydings no longer looks us in the eye and says that black is white. He wishes now that he had not been selected for the job of confusing the American people about communism."

Butler suggested that Tydings "get up to date and talk about the issues today."

The issues he said are (1) Was the United States "ready for this war?" (2) "Are there Communists in our government?" and (3) "What commitments has (Secretary of State) Dean Acheson made that might bring on another war?"
